Hunt Suspended Temporarily

Searchers Fail To Locate 3 Boys In Abandoned Pit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Weary rescue workers emerged from an abandoned coal mine today after an all-night search and said they found no trace of three missing teen-aged boys believed lost inside.

T.J. McDonald, assistant district supervisor for the U.S. Bureau of Mines, ordered the hunt suspended temporarily. He said:

"If the boys do not show by this afternoon, we are going to press our search even further."

However, he added: "If they were there, we would have found them by now."

McDonald said rescuers had searched every part of the mine that was accessible, covering an estimated 1,200-square foot area.

One section of the mine is filled with water, but McDonald said a heavy scum on the surface had not been disturbed.

Mine rescue experts, aided by police and firemen, launched a search for the youths Thursday night afetr another boy reported he saw them enter the old mine in suburban Castle Shannon.

Bicycles of the boys, identified as Billy Berk, 13; Danny O'Kain, 13; and Robert Abbott, 14, were found about 20 feet from the wine mouth. The entrance, previously sealed with brick and wire mesh, had been torn open.

Fire Chief Alex Brown of Castle Shannon theorized the youths, in a spirit of adventure, went into the mine to explore and became lost in its dark, twisting corridors.

An eight-man rescue team, using self-contained breathing equipment, took up the search after firemen were turned back by lethal black damp gas. Five of the rescue experts were from the U.S. Bureau of Mines; three from

Armed Police, State Troops Patrol Port City After Violence

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Heavily armed police and state troopers patrolled this port city today after firing tear gas for the second night to disperse crowds of rock-throwing Negroes and block a mass march on the downtown area.

Two Negro teen-agers were treated for gunshot wounds.

Walter Williams, 18, released after treatment for a bullet wound in the left thigh, told police he was shot from a passing car before the mass demonstration began. Police broadcast an alert for a car carrying four white men.

Gene Drew, 18, was admitted to Memorial Hospital with shotgun wound in the back shortly after the mass march began, but it was not determined immediately whether the shooting had any racial overtones. Drew's condition was reported fair.

No other major injuries were reported.

The latest disorders came on the heels of new pleas from spokesmen for both races for an end to violence.

The march began after about 2,000 Negroes jammed into a recreation center for a rally. Before leaving, they were urged against wrongdoing by the Rev. Andrew Young of Atlanta. Young is an official of the Southern Leadership Conference, headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Hundreds of Negroes formed a column of twos and began marching. Others trailed along as spectators.

On a dark street one block from a busy thoroughfare, and still in the Negro section, they were met by a skirmish line of riot-ready police and troopers carrying carbines or nightsticks and wearing gas masks.

The marchers halted. A city official talked with two of the leaders and the column of twos began to disperse. A shot rang out,

'The General' To Visit Area On Weekend

By GLENN WAIGHT

In December 1855, the Western & Atlantic Railroad of Georgia bought a 25-ton steam locomotive from a New Jersey firm for $8,850 and put it into service on runs in the Atlanta area.

Seven years later, "The General" figured in one of the most melodramatic chases of the Civil War, a bold effort to cripple the heart of the Confederate transportation and supply lines.

Monday, the reconditioned locomotive and museum car return to the homeland of a number of Union men who took part in the raid, which stirred excitement throughout the nation during the Civil War and has become famous in story and film in the century since.

KNOWN as "The Great Locomotive Chase," the venture ended in death for eight of the federals — including a Salineville man and a Jefferson County soldier — and the nation's first Congressional Medals of Honor for the survivors.

Now on tour throughout Ohio in connection with various Civil War Centennials, "The General" will arrive in Columbiana County Sunday for a stop at Lisbon, where it will be on display at the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad station from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Routed to Conway via Leetonia, the historic engine will travel the Pennsylvania Railroad line Monday to Wellsville, stopping briefly here about 8:15 a. m. to pick up about 20 passengers who have received special tickets for the ride to Wellsville.

THE TRAIN will be on display at Wellsville at the Pennsy engine house near 15th St. from 9 a. m. to noon.

In the Union raiding party were William Campbell, a husky, 23-year-old Salineville adventurer, and Perry Shadrach, 21, of Knoxville in Jefferson County, who later were hanged by the Confederates with six others on a scaffold in Atlanta.

Also in the group was William Pittenger, a bespectacled 21-year-old Knoxville area school teacher who subsequently wrote a history of the wild 1862 train ride and its aftermath.

12 Arrested After Night Of Violence

3 Off-Duty Guards Among Those Shot In Demonstration

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) —Roving bands of gunmen wounded six white persons Thursday night and early today, climaxing hours of racial rioting.

A National Guard batallion of about 400 men was ordered into the racially torn city of 12,200 today, a secretary at the state adjutant general's office in Baltimore said.

Three off-duty National Guardsmen were among those shot in the gunfire which broke out after 25 white patrons of a segregated lunchroom grabbed and slugged six whites and negroes attempting to stage a sit-in demonstration.

State Police arrested 12 persons —10 Negroes and two whites. Two Negroes and two whites, who were among those attempting the sit-in, were charged with disorderly conduct.

As the sit-in attempt was made, about 200 Negoes watching from across the street ran to the restaurant and police moved in and dispersed the mob.

In the evening, about 300 whites and Negro integrationists marched from the Negro section of town to the courthouse seven blocks away, while some 1,000 white hecklers jeered and threw raw eggs at the demonstrators.

Police used dogs to keep the whites from following the marchers back into the Negro section. State Police fired some tear gas at the white crowd and later fired more in the Negro district when milling crowds of Negroes defied police orders to disperse.

The night was the town's most violent since racial demonstrations began about two years ago. Gov. J. Millard Tawes sent National Guard troops into the community June 14, after four straight nights of violence, then withdrew them Monday amid an uneasy peace.

Two white men sitting on a porch were wounded Thursday when they got up to investigate some noises. Frank D. Tavaliero was at home with a friend, John

Legislature Closes Shop Until Dec. 2

Both Houses Call Recess Instead Of Final Adjournment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's General Assembly has closed up shop until Dec. 2.

Instead of taking the usual final adjournment at the end of regular work Thursday, both houses recessed the session that convened Jan. 7.

Leaders said the recess placed the legislature in position to implement a $250 million capital improvements bond issue proposal, if approved at the polls in November.

Legislators also plan a study of Ohio's welfare program looking to possible reorganization of administration and financing at both state and local levels after the recess.

They said the study would include proposals to qualify Ohio for participation in a federal program for Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADCU), which failed to get anywhere during the regular session.

Another study possibility advanced was state redistricting. The governor's Little Hoover Commission, now surveying state

Panel Sifting Facts

Study Launched On Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's fact-finding committee goes to work today on a new study of the railroad labor dispute.

Its object: To sift the facts in the four-year-old fight over new work rules and have a report ready for the President by July 20. The report will serve as the basis of legislative recommendations Kennedy plans to make to Congress July 22, a week before a truce expires for a threatened nationwide rail strike.

Thursday night, a high government source said it is a fair conclusion that the legislation would involve some form of arbitration —the expectation in government circles since the dispute began building to a head.

Members of the special panel haven't ruled out the possibility of playing a mediator's role if the opportunity arises. But the chairman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, tends to the view that there is little likelihood of mediation by a panel member in the short time allotted for completion of the report.

At a 90-minute organizational meeting Thursday, Wirtz emphasized there will be no attempt at mediation by the committee as a whole. As to the possibility that he or another member will act as a mediator, Wirtz' attitude is understood to be "let's wait and see."

The railroads have agreed to postpone at least until July 29 changes in the manning of trains that will gradually eliminate some 65,000 jobs. Five operating unions representing 190,000 workers have pledged to withhold strike action until that date.

By winning this reprieve Wednesday afternoon, Kennedy forestalled a strike that had been scheduled to begin at 12:01 a.m. Thursday.

Wirtz is pictured as having a firm conviction that between July 22 and 29 it is possible to get legislation dealing with the situation through what is regarded as a reluctant Congress.

At a news conference Thursday, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana served notice that "Congress is not going to be stampeded into any action that is not justified."

However, Halleck added, this does not mean that Congress could not act expeditiously.

Junta Ruling In Ecuador After Ouster

President Exiled, Accused Of Being Frequently Drunk

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A military junta ruled Ecuador today after exiling President Carlos Arosemena. The junta said he "was frequently drunk, spotted the national honor and Sympathized with communism."

(A Quito radio report heard in Colombia said five persons were killed and three wounded when army tank fired on a crowd stoning members of the junta as they entered the government palace to take office.)

A military spokesman said Arosemena, a known tippler, disgraced himself by getting drunk at a banquet Wednesday night in honor of the president of the Grace Lines, retired U.S. Adm. Wilfred McNeil.

Guests at the reception said the president shouted abuse at U.S. Ambassador Maurice Bernbaum, vomited in front of the gathering and committed "even more indecorous acts."

Thursday morning the chiefs of the three armed branches met with the commander of the Quito garrison and decided to depose Arosemena. Eight tanks and truckloads of soldiers surrounded the presidential palace about 2 p.m.

Arosemena refused to resign and named his brother Gustavo as defense minister in an effort to rally the armed forces against the uprising. Friends of the 44-year-old president who were in the besieged palace said he was still drunk.

The situation remained in doubt for several hours until provincial commanders began to send messages of support for the rebel chiefs.

Work Started On $3 Million Job At Salem

SALEM — Excavating began this week in preparation for construction of a $3 million Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. refrigeration warehouse along Route 45 just south of here, designed to serve A. & P. stores in parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and three other states.

An estimated 150 men and women will be employed at the warehouse, which is to be in operation in about a year, officials of the company said.

The facility will be located in the center of a 65-acre tract just south of the city limits and will receive frozen foods and perishables for storage under "ideal conditions" the firm reported.

Three-fourths of space of the warehouse — which will cover three acres — will be utilized for storage of fresh meats.

The Freeman Construction Co. of Wooster is contractor for the work.

This will be the first and only such facility of its size in the Central Division of the A. & P., it was announced.

The warehouse also will serve stores in parts of New York, Kentucky and Maryland.

Lottery Count Follows Raid

Police, Deputies Hit Weirton Spot

WEIRTON — Weirton Police and Hancock County sheriff's deputies joined forces Thursday to pull a daylight raid on the Sports Lounge, 3001 Main St., where three men and a woman were arrested on charges of operating a lottery.

Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny and Deputy Joseph Rainey joined Weirton Police Chief Ed Frankovitch, Capt. Andy Olenick and Lt. Fred Risovich in the raid at 2:53 p. m.

They arrested the quartet on charges of operating a lottery —baseball parlays — in one of the first daylight raids in recent years.

The defendants are Rene J. Philastre, 63, and Randolph Stepanovich, 55, both of Steubenville, and Thomas Olszewski, 44, and Teresa Leeds, 32, both of Weirton.

All posted $500 property bonds for hearings Monday night at 8 before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

The officers obtained search and seizure warrants from Squire Herron to enter the establishment and confiscate lottery slips, money, punch boards, baseball scorecards and other items.

The confiscated property was taken to Weirton Police headquarters.

Bills To Go Into Mail On Real Estate Taxes

LISBON — County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge announced today about 26,000 statements will go into the mail next week, covering the concluding payment on second half real estate taxes for 1962 and carrying a closing date of Aug. 10.

If an individual purchased property after Jan. 1 of any year, the law requires the title to appear in the former owner's name on the treasurer's tax statements, including the last half collection, Judge pointed out. The statements are mailed as an aid to collection and failure of the form to reach the property-owner gives him no legal defense against penalties, he added.

To obtain statements, persons who assumed taxes as part of the purchase price of a property must notify the treasurer's office, giving a description of the property and the name of the former owner, he said.

Expecting Third In Late August

Jackie Already Recipient Of Many Gifts For Baby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Americans already are sending gifts and good wishes to Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who is expecting a third baby in late August.

Baby booties, bibs, bonnets, sweaters and handmade quilts are often included in the daily mail at the White House, along with notes from many parts of the world.

A White House spokesman says the letters even include offers to help take care of the new baby. And, the mail also brings name suggestions and requests to be godparents.

Little girls hope it will be a girl; boys vote for a boy.

Some letter writers urge Mrs. Kennedy to have her new baby born in the White House itself. But she and the President, on advice of physicians, already have ruled that out and Mrs. Kennedy has a date the last week in August at Walter Reed Army Hospital here for a Caesarean delivery.

The White House says Mrs. Kennedy's mail continues to run an average of 300 letters a day. About 450 of the letters received since announcement of her pregnancy concern the baby. About 100 gifts have been received so far.

The White House said most of the gifts will go to charitable institutions. A spokesman noted it is White House policy that the First Lady accept only those gifts "worth under $15."

A spokesman for the First Lady said everyone who writes Mrs. Kennedy gets an acknowledgment from the White House, but the answers may not be from her personally. Actually, Mrs. Kennedy only gets to see those letters which her staff think merit her special attention, the spokesman said.

Blaze Levels District Home

Cause Still Sought At Hammondsville

HAMMONDSVILLE — Fire destroyed the one-story frame home of the George Gough family on Pine Grove today at 4 a.m., Irondale volunteer firemen reported.

The blaze broke out while Gough was fishing at Guilford Lake and his wife was visiting neighbors.

Fire Chief Oliver Nicholson said Gough found the dwelling in flames when he returned from the fishing trip.

Unable to locate a telephone in the rural area, he drove five miles or more to Cream City to summon Irondale firemen. But when they arrived at the scene, the dwelling had been gutted by the flames.

The loss included all the contents of the three-room dwelling. It is partially covered by insurance, Chief Nicholson said.

He was to investigate this afternoon in an attempt to determine the cause. Twelve firemen responded to the alarm.

Junta Ruling In Ecuador After Ouster

President Exiled, Accused Of Being Frequently Drunk

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—A military junta ruled Ecuador today after exiling President Carlos Arosemena. The junta said he "was frequently drunk, spotted the national honor and Sympathized with communism."

(A Quito radio report heard in Colombia said five persons were killed and three wounded when army tank fired on a crowd stoning members of the junta as they entered the government palace to take office.)

A military spokesman said Arosemena, a known tippler, disgraced himself by getting drunk at a banquet Wednesday night in honor of the president of the Grace Lines, retired U.S. Adm. Wilfred McNeil.

Guests at the reception said the president shouted abuse at U.S. Ambassador Maurice Bernbaum, vomited in front of the gathering and committed "even more indecorous acts."

Thursday morning the chiefs of the three armed branches met with the commander of the Quito garrison and decided to depose Arosemena. Eight tanks and truckloads of soldiers surrounded the presidential palace about 2 p.m.

Arosemena refused to resign and named his brother Gustavo as defense minister in an effort to rally the armed forces against the uprising. Friends of the 44-year-old president who were in the besieged palace said he was still drunk.

The situation remained in doubt for several hours until provincial commanders began to send messages of support for the rebel chiefs.

Work Started On $3 Million Job At Salem

SALEM — Excavating began this week in preparation for construction of a $3 million Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. refrigeration warehouse along Route 45 just south of here, designed to serve A. & P. stores in parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and three other states.

An estimated 150 men and women will be employed at the warehouse, which is to be in operation in about a year, officials of the company said.

The faciiity will be located in the center of a 65-acre tract just south of the city limits and will receive frozen foods and perishables for storage under "ideal conditions" the firm reported.

Three-fourths of space of the warehouse — which will cover three acres — will be utilized for storage of fresh meats.

The Freeman Construction Co. of Wooster is contractor for the work.

This will be the first and only such facility of its size in the Central Division of the A. & P., it was announced.

The warehouse also will serve stores in parts of New York, Kentucky and Maryland.

Lottery Count Follows Raid

Police, Deputies Hit Weirton Spot

WEIRTON — Weirton Police and Hancock County sheriff's deputies joined forces Thursday to pull a daylight raid on the Sports Lounge, 3001 Main St., where three men and a woman were arrested on charges of operating a lottery.

Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny and Deputy Joseph Rainey joined Weirton Police Chief Ed Frankovitch, Capt. Andy Olenick and Lt. Fred Risovich in the raid at 2:53 p. m.

They arrested the quartet on charges of operating a lottery —baseball parlays — in one of the first daylight raids in recent years.

The defendants are Rene J. Philastre, 63, and Randolph Stepanovich, 55, both of Steubenville, and Thomas Olszewski, 44, and Teresa Leeds, 32, both of Weirton.

All posted $500 property bonds for hearings Monday night at 8 before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

The officers obtained search and seizure warrants from Squire Herron to enter the establishment and confiscate lottery slips, money, punch boards, baseball scorecards and other items.

The confiscated property was taken to Weirton Police headquarters.

Expecting Third In Late August

Jackie Already Recipient Of Many Gifts For Baby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Americans already are sending gifts and good wishes to Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who is expecting a third baby in late August.

Baby booties, bibs, bonnets, sweaters and handmade quilts are often included in the daily mail at the White House, along with notes from many parts of the world.

A White House spokesman says the letters even include offers to help take care of the new baby. And, the mail also brings name suggestions and requests to be godparents.

Little girls hope it will be a girl; boys vote for a boy.

Some letter writers urge Mrs. Kennedy to have her new baby born in the White House itself. But she and the President, on advice of physicians, already have ruled that out and Mrs. Kennedy has a date the last week in August at Walter Reed Army Hospital here for a Caesarean delivery.

The White House says Mrs. Kennedy's mail continues to run an average of 300 letters a day. About 450 of the letters received since announcement of her pregnancy concern the baby. About 100 gifts have been received so far.

The White House said most of the gifts will go to charitable institutions. A spokesman noted it is White House policy that the First Lady accept only those gifts "worth under $15."

A spokesman for the First Lady said everyone who writes Mrs. Kennedy gets an acknowledgment from the White House, but the answers may not be from her personally. Actually, Mrs. Kennedy only gets to see those letters which her staff think merit her special attention, the spokesman said.

Blaze Levels District Home

Cause Still Sought At Hammondsville

HAMMONDSVILLE — Fire destroyed the one-story frame home of the George Gough family on Pine Grove today at 4 a.m., Irondale volunteer firemen reported.

The blaze broke out while Gough was fishing at Guilford Lake and his wife was visiting neighbors.

Fire Chief Oliver Nicholson said Gough found the dwelling in flames when he returned from the fishing trip.

Unable to locate a telephone in the rural area, he drove five miles or more to Cream City to summon Irondale firemen. But when they arrived at the scene, the dwelling had been gutted by the flames.

The loss included all the contents of the three-room dwelling. It is partially covered by insurance, Chief Nicholson said.

He was to investigate this afternoon in an attempt to determine the cause. Twelve firemen responded to the alarm.

Thompson Park Concert Planned Sunday By Band

The second in a series of public performances by the East Liverpool Concert Band will be presented Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the main entrance to Thompson Park.

The concert has been arranged by the civic and community affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Local 172 of the American Federation of Musicians and the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners.

The 50-piece orchestra is comprised of members of the musicians' local and some high school musicians, with Vincent Maola as director.

The professional musicians are paid from the music performance trust fund, which is built up by royalties paid to the AFM from phonograph record sales throughout the country.

Approximately 300 heard the initial concert last Sunday afternoon at the Broadway wharf.

Meanwhile, six more concerts have been scheduled in the area, Eric (Scotty) Young of Local 172 said.

The band will present a concert Sunday, July 21, from 2 to 4 p.m. on the grounds of Wells High School under the auspices of the Newell volunteer fire department.

The musicians also will present a concert from 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, July 27, as part of Wellsville's commemoration of Morgan's Raid. The concert will be presented on Broadway, Young said.

The band will present two concerts during the St. Rocco festival next month in Wellsville. It will perform Aug. 5 and Aug. 7, with both concerts slated from 7 to 9 p.m., Young said.

American Legion Post 70 of Wellsville will sponsor a concert Sunday, Aug. 25, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Roadside Park.

The final concert scheduled so far will be presented Sunday, Sept. 1, from 2 to 4 p.m. on Riverside Ave. under the sponsorship of the Wellsville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

300 Inspect Bergholz Farm To See Conservation Work

More than 300 civic, church and business leaders turned out Wednesday for a tour of the 277-acre Martin Adams farm on State Route 164 north of Bergholz, arranged by the Jefferson County Soil and Water Conservation District.

The annual tours are designed to acquaint urban residents with conservation practices and to promote better relations between rural and urban dwellers.

Guests were greeted by Walter Sutton, chairman of the sponsoring group, who also introduced the Martin Adams family. Lunch was served at 1. Table service was in charge of wives of the conservation district supervisors. Blanchard (Pep) Yoder was in charge of refreshments.

Robert Cole of the Citizens Banking Co. at Salineville discussed the history of the farm and its connection with the raid of Gen. John H. Morgan and his Confederate cavalrymen through the district.

The guests then were transported over the farm on wagons pulled by tractors. John Dunlavey of Cambridge, a representative of the Soil Conservation Service discussed the structure of the soil.

Gabe Rozsa of the Conservation District explained procedures in spring land development.

The wagon tour halted at the highest point in Jefferson County, an elevation of 1,388 feet.

Following the tour, a fishing contest was held in a lake on the farm. Dale Swickard of Toronto caught the first fish. Joe Habowski of Steubenville caught the smallest. Other prizes went to Joey Wilkinson of Weirton, Diana Adams of Salineville and Danny Morehead of Mount Pleasant.

Prizes were donated by the Steubenville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Greek King And Queen Leave London After Turbulent Visit

LONDON (AP)—King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece left by plane for Athens today after a turbulent four-day state visit marked by violent demonstrations.

There was no sign of demonstrators either at Buckingham Palace or at London airport.

Authorities took no chance on a last-minute outbreak. A small army of British security agents and policemen blocked all entrances to the airport where Paul and Frederika boarded a special Greek airliner for Athens.

Police also set up 300 yards of crash barriers near the departure area and parked automobiles across all possible entry points between buildings.

Disturbances marking the royal visit continued Thursday night. Police clashed with demonstrators trying to march on Claridges Hotel where the Greek couple gave a farewell banquet for Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip.

Fighting began when demonstrators tried to penetrate a line of bobbies blocking all approaches to the hotel. The demonstrators yelled "fascists" and chanted the Nazi cry "sieg heil."

The demonstrations were organized by the "Committee of 100," a ban-the-bomb group which demands liberation of nearly 1,000 prisoners held since the 1947-49 Communist uprising in Greece. Demonstrators claim these are political prisoners. The Greek government says they were convicted of such crimes as murder and treason.

Americans today spend roughly $100 billion a year on transportation — half of this to move ourselves around the landscape and half to move our products.

Contracts Let For Supplies At Wellsville

The Wellsville Board of Control today awarded contracts for the supply of gasoline, coal, lime and alum for the city for the coming year.

The contract for gasoline for city vehicles went to Warden's Sunoco Service of Wellsville, the lone bidder. The price is 23.7 cents per gallon for regular gasoline and 26.7 cents per gallon for high test. Warden's Service held the contract last year.

Coal will be purchased from Quality Feed Co. of Wellsville, also the lone bidder. The firm will provide Pittsburgh coal at $11 per ton and local coal at $9 per ton.

Quality Feed also received the contract for supplying 40 tons of chemical lime for the filtration plant on its bid of $21.40 per ton delivered. The firm held both the coal and lime contracts last year.

City officials explained Quality Feed was not the low bidder but will deliver the lime in smaller quantities and when needed. Other firms bid on larger quantities. The city has no place to store a large amount of lime. Some also charge extra for storing lime and some charge extra for delivering it.

Marble Cliff Quarries of Columbus bid $19.25 per ton, in 15 to 18 ton quantitites. Scioto Lime and Stone Co. of Delaware offered one brand at $20.55 per ton and another for $23.30 per ton, but wanted $1 more per ton for storing the entire amount.

Opalco Laboratories of Mc-Keesport, Pa., offered lime at $21.40 in lots of 12 tons or more per shipment.

The contract for supplying 40 tons, more or less, of alum went to Olin Co. of New York on a bid of $46.35 per ton delivered. Opalco offered alum at $2.40 per hundred pounds or $49.40 per ton.

American Cyanamide Co. of Chicago bid $49.75, while General Chemical Corp. of Pittsburgh offered $50 per ton.

The board consists of Mayor William Daugherty, Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare and Auditor Edgar S. Davidson, secretary.

The bids on the supplies were opened last Friday.

Greek King And Queen Leave London After Turbulent Visit

LONDON (AP)—King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece left by plane for Athens today after a turbulent four-day state visit marked by violent demonstrations.

There was no sign of demonstrators either at Buckingham Palace or at London airport.

Authorities took no chance on a last-minute outbreak. A small army of British security agents and policemen blocked all entrances to the airport where Paul and Frederika boarded a special Greek airliner for Athens.

Police also set up 300 yards of crash barriers near the departure area and parked automobiles across all possible entry points between buildings.

Disturbances marking the royal visit continued Thursday night. Police clashed with demonstrators trying to march on Claridges Hotel where the Greek couple gave a farewell banquet for Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip.

Fighting began when demonstrators tried to penetrate a line of bobbies blocking all approaches to the hotel. The demonstrators yelled "fascists" and chanted the Nazi cry "sieg heil."

The demonstrations were organized by the "Committee of 100," a ban-the-bomb group which demands liberation of nearly 1,000 prisoners held since the 1947-49 Communist uprising in Greece. Demonstrators claim these are political prisoners. The Greek government says they were convicted of such crimes as murder and treason.

Americans today spend roughly $100 billion a year on transportation — half of this to move ourselves around the landscape and half to move our products.

Contracts Let For Supplies At Wellsville

The Wellsville Board of Control today awarded contracts for the supply of gasoline, coal, lime and alum for the city for the coming year.

The contract for gasoline for city vehicles went to Warden's Sunoco Service of Wellsville, the lone bidder. The price is 23.7 cents per gallon for regular gasoline and 26.7 cents per gallon for high test. Warden's Service held the contract last year.

Coal will be purchased from Quality Feed Co. of Wellsville, also the lone bidder. The firm will provide Pittsburgh coal at $11 per ton and local coal at $9 per ton.

Quality Feed also received the contract for supplying 40 tons of chemical lime for the filtration plant on its bid of $21.40 per ton delivered. The firm held both the coal and lime contracts last year.

City officials explained Quality Feed was not the low bidder but will deliver the lime in smaller quantities and when needed. Other firms bid on larger quantities. The city has no place to store a large amount of lime. Some also charge extra for storing lime and some charge extra for delivering it.

Marble Cliff Quarries of Columbus bid $19.25 per ton, in 15 to 18 ton quantitites. Scioto Lime and Stone Co. of Delaware offered one brand at $20.55 per ton and another for $23.30 per ton, but wanted $1 more per ton for storing the entire amount.

Opalco Laboratories of McKeesport, Pa., offered lime at $21.40 in lots of 12 tons or more per shipment.

The contract for supplying 40 tons, more or less, of alum went to Olin Co. of New York on a bid of $46.35 per ton delivered. Opalco offered alum at $2.40 per hundred pounds or $40.40 per ton.

American Cyanamide Co. of Chicago bid $40.75, while General Chemical Corp. of Pittsburgh offered $50 per ton.

The board consists of Mayor William Daugherty, Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare and Auditor Edgar S. Davidson, secretary.

The bids on the supplies were opened last Friday.

Neil's Worm Farm

LOWELL, Ark. (AP) — Leland Neil uses an electric fence to keep his stock at home — but his stock is a million worms. Neil operates a "worm farm" here, selling his wiggling creatures for fish bait. His "pastures" are beds of peat moss where the heat is carefully controlled. A 10-volt electric wire runs around the tops of the growing boxes to keep the worms from crawling out.

Don't Call It 'Arbitration'

When it is remembered that the railroad dispute which threatened to close down the railroads this week is almost four years old, a few more weeks' leeway and another commission to study what is threadbare from previous studies can make no difference.

There has been agreement on only one point in the dispute.

The dispute must not precipitate a strike. No one wants a strike. Rail unions stand to gain nothing. Management stands to lose its shirt. The public, whose feelings are manifest in Congress, is fed to the teeth with work stoppages taken out of the public hide. Strikes have used up public tolerance.

Because these things are true, many observers think the railroad dispute may bring another turning point this year in union-management relations — perhaps a turning point as significant as the behind-scenes agreement in the steel industry, which may become the pattern for a similar agreement in the aluminum industry.

THE NATURE of the turning point is indeterminate. But it presumably would entail recognition that some differences between employers and employes do not lend themselves to collective bargaining.

How can any union engage in collective bargaining about a proposal to abolish its members' jobs; what would there be to bargain about?

No union representative would dare to go back to his constituents to report he had signed, sealed and delivered an agreement to separate so and so many thousand of them from a company payroll.

That has been the consequence of more than one session of collective bargaining, but it never has been announced as the aim of a bargaining session.

Yet, in the railroad dispute the question is not whether but how many employes are going to be separated from railroad payrolls either permanently or temporarily. This simply is not collective bargaining material.

DECISIONS like this must be made arbitrarily if they are made at all. They are management's prerogative in all other industries.

This, then, becomes the probable key to an agreement that will avert a railroad strike if management chances the right to make management decisions.

Some way must be found to permit railroad management to reorganize its work force in accord with efficient practice and to reconcile dislocated and relocated members of the work force and their union representatives.

If a way can be found, it must be kept free of the label of "arbitration," because everybody who has had anything to say has made it plain that "arbitration" is unthinkable—meaning, of course, it is what all of them have been thinking about.

The newest presidential commission will report July 22. A week later there will be a new deadline. A railroad strike is still possible. But arbitration by some name to conceal what it really is must be thought of as probable.

Governmental Flaw Hurts Confidence

By DAVID LAWRENCE

These are sad days — human conflicts and controversies fill the headlines. There's plenty to write about — including labor troubles, problems of foreign policy and emotional demonstrations on the home front for civil rights. But what is more important than the integrity of our government itself?

David Lawrence

What is more distressing than the tendency nowadays to gloss over the unmorality of politics as a custom that has come to stay—as an end that justifies the means? How can this be expected to maintain confidence in American institutions?

Tucked away every now and then in the news dispatches read by the American people are evidences of what is fundamentally wrong with our government, but these arouse no demonstrations or demands that governmental power shall be used only for the good of the people instead of the self-interest of office holders.

Here is an example from a United Press International dispatch this week:

"President Kennedy yesterday nominated Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., as a federal judge for the Western District of Texas. In so doing, he rewarded Thornberry for past support but at the same time created a further problem for himself in the closely divided House rules group.

"Speaker McCormack let it be known he had picked another Texan to fill Thornberry's crucial rules seat, and word was passed among members that (Rep. John) Young was the man. In selecting Young, McCormack obviously acted in the belief Young could be counted on in a pinch to support the leadership even in the face of adverse local interest."

IT'S REPORTED on Capital Hill, moreover, that the administration plans to defer action in the Senate on the Thornberry nomination until sometime toward the end of the present session in order to assure his vote for administration policies in the closely divided rules committee of the House while important legislation is being considered by the committee in the next few months.

The House Rules Committee has a majority of Democrats, but they do not all think as the administration wants them to think. Often legislation that is deemed desirable by the President doesn't get out of this committee.

Why should Rep. Thornberry be "rewarded" with a federal judgeship? He has never served on the bench in any court. Why should the President of the United States give anyone a lifetime post in the judicial system on the basis of favors done of a political nature?

How can there be confidence in the federal judiciary if judgeships become a matter of political patronage? Were there no lawyers or state judges in West Texas better qualified for the judgeship in question?

The argument is made that this has been done in the past by other administrations — as if, once a political ruse is employed, it may readily be taken as an established precedent or practice for the future.

The American people have been told again and again that theirs is a government by the people and for the people and that no selfish interest should prevail against the national interest.

THE FLAW, if any, is in the constitutional system in America which separates the legislative body from the executive and ignores the principle of party responsibility — such as is applied under the British or Canadian parliamentary system.

The answer certainly doesn't lie in using federal judgeships as a "reward" to individual members of Congress elected by the people to deal with public questions on their merits and not as a president may dictate that they shall vote.

Time and again the American Bar Association has cried out that federal judges should be named on the basis of their qualifications and not for political reasons.

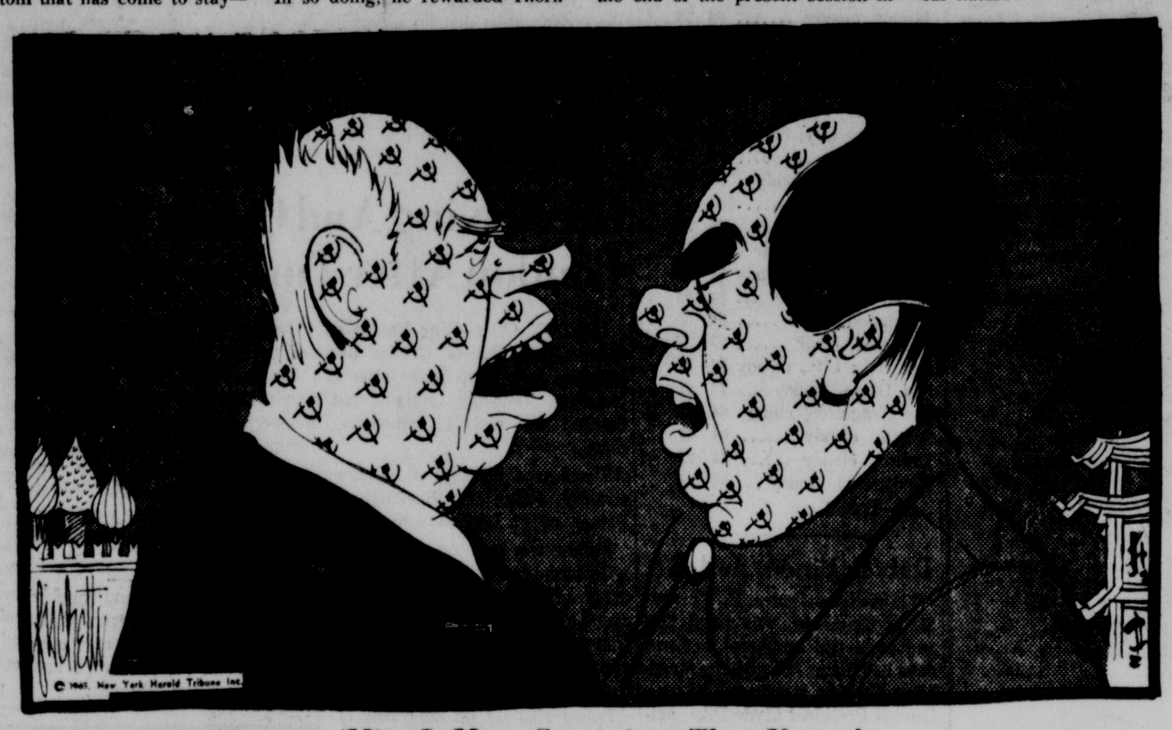

The association has tried, through a specially appointed committee, to classify as "well qualified" or just "qualified" or "not qualified" the names of those under consideration by the Department of Justice for recommendation to the president.

Even this system caters somewhat to the political climate prevailing in the Department of Justice. It should not be necessary for a bar association committee or any other group to remind an administration of the importance of moral integrity in the exercise of governmental powers, especially when Judges are to be appointed.

DOES THE SYSTEM of using judgeships as a "reward" for past political favors mean that judges already on the bench can expect promotions to the U. S. Court of Appeals if they "play ball" with the administration in power?

All these are fundamental questions. They naturally are asked when the American people are told that a congressman who has "played ball" with the administration receives a federal judgeship, whilst other men—as well, if not better, qualified—are passed over.

This is news to many people but not to the politically minded who hold high office and feel they can rely on the continued indifference of the voters to such practices in present day politics.

'Mine Is More Contagious Than Yours.'

Secretary McNamara's Law

If we grasp the principle laid down by Secretary of Defense McNamara, it is something like Parkinson's Law.

Parkinson's Law says work expands to fill the time allotted for its performance.

McNamara's Law says military need expands to fill the money allotted to pay for it.

Therefore, he intends to keep it from expanding as fast as military expanders would make it expand if no one checked them.

This is a herculean task. Secretary McNamara has fitted his official neck for the military noose that has hanged men just as dedicated and knowledgeable as he is.

Militarists and their spokesmen in Congress and lobbying organizations take a sour view of people who clamp a lid on their insatiable desire for more security.

AS RESPECTED an authority on the military mind as Dwight D. Eisenhower, five-star general and former president of the United States, warned in his farewell message before leaving office that military spenders and suppliers with a vested interest in keeping it at the highest possible level would bear the closest watching in this country.

He considered them and the pressures they represented to be the foremost menace to the United States. The warning was largely glossed over at the time and obscured by the hoopla over the incoming Kennedy administration. But it was issued and thoughtful Americans took note of it.

Robert McNamara undoubtedly was one of these. It has been his fixed purpose ever since coming into the Department of Defense to curtail the growth of military spending. To this end, he has incurred the undying enmity of military spenders.

Ironically, he can point to no net saving. He cannot claim he has reduced military saving.

All he can do is say how much greater the spending would have been if he had not clamped down here and cracked down there. And even when he says that, he must hasten to explain this has been done at no harm to the national security.

AT THE MOMENT he is talking about a $4 billion cutback in the next two fiscal years.

What he really means is that if he hadn't taken his official life in his hands to say No, the spenders would have their hooks into taxpayers for $4 billion more than they are planning to bleed out of them anyway.

The proportions of the blood-letting are 51 cents for defense and space out of every single one of $98.8 billion dollars, which is approximately $10 billion more than the federal government has any reasonable hope of collecting.

In Washington, it's said Secretary McNamara is the key man in the Kennedy administration, meaning he is the Cabinet official with the power to make the key decisions.

If he used his power eventually to get control of that runaway 51-cent take off the top for defense, he would deserve a memorial on the Lagoon.

He might even be included in the list of potential Republican presidential nominees.

Need A Project?

Local organizations looking for worthwhile projects might take a cue from the St. Jude Group, Christian Family Movement, of the St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

The group has undertaken the task of clearing a section of the river bank along the River Rd. as part of the beautification program under way here.

The community as a whole would benefit if others would do likewise. Jim Allison, chairman of the Civic and Community Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will be more than happy to coordinate the efforts.

Resodding

By Truman Twill

One of the office charmers returned from her vacation today with her hair dyed — off-white. Everybody commented favorably on the transformation. My comment goes deeper.

I want equal rights.

It was built into my genes to start losing hair before I was 20. Hereditary baldness is a pain in the scalp for millions of men.

Not to knock people who say otherwise but only to confess skepticism. It's doubtful if anything can be done to save men from hereditary baldness. The evil day can be put off, perhaps, but eventually destiny will catch up to them.

Nearly every glamor boy in the entertainment field is compelled to wear a hair piece for public appearances. Even when these photogenic dolls have enough fur on their noggins for ordinary purposes, they need help to fool the camera.

No one has any objection to this. Women sigh and palpitate just as if their cinematic lover boys were haired over like chimps. Their fans would feel let down if they appeared in public without scalp doilies. It would show disregard for their devotees.

SO, THAT'S how it is with actor fellows.

But not for us nonactor fellows.

When we shed, we're shunned.

They make jokes about us and never let us forget how we look.

If we fight back with a touch of resodding, they break up in laughter and make us feel as if we had been watering the liquor or practicing some equally sleazy deceptions.

Suppose I came back from my vacation with a mop of distinguished iron-gray hair. Nothing sets off a man like iron-gray hair, provided there's plenty of it, preferably with a tendency to be wavy.

There wouldn't be a tactful moment. Everybody on the place would feel it and tug at it to see if it was on tight. They'd make me take it off and show them how it worked.

When the novelty had worn off, they still would have the thing on their minds. They'd nod in my direction when talking to strangers and it would be obvious they were passing along the word that "ole wobble-head over thar, he is fooling the public with false hair, har, har."

That is how it would be.

I HAVE BEEN investigating overhead on the overhead. For $500, I could be transformed into a man of distinction. This would include one on the job, one going and one coming, as they said in WPA days.

People would want to know who the fellow is with the beautiful iron gray hair.

But it would work only if I could make a fresh start among strangers. If I tried it with the people who know me, they'd kid me out of my scalp.

Odd Facts

How will space probes make it to Mars and Venus, you ask? If a space ship starts out fast enough (about 25,000 m.p.h., as compared with the Mercury capsules' velocity of approximately 17,500 m.p.h.), it will never fall back toward earth. Earth gravity will slow it down but, because the pull decreases with distance from the earth, the slowdown will never overcome the outward speed.

The wettest state in the U. S. is Louisiana, with a 65-year annual average of 57.34 inches. The driest state is Nevada, with a 66-year annual average of only 8.60 inches. The average annual precipitation for the United States is about 29 inches.

A full-grown chimpanzee is about 4½ times stronger than a well-developed male athlete.

U.S. Industry Meets Competition Challenge

Ralph Cordiner, chairman of the board of General Electric, was asked by Victor Riesel to outline his company's policies and the reasons for such successful competition. His comment follows.

By RALPH J. CORDINER
Chairman of the Board
General Electric Company

The highly competitive international market that is emerging today represents one of the toughest challenges facing United States business management.

The day is past when we can think in terms of a "domestic market" and a "foreign market," and choose which one to compete in. For an increasingly large proportion of United States businesses, competition is worldwide. Some of our best customers are overseas, and so are some of our most aggressive and successful competitors.

This is a fact which must be in the forefront of all business planning, and profoundly affects the levels of employment in this country.

In many companies today, every employe has a competitive counterpart overseas who is generally receiving considerably less pay and has a lower standard of living.

The lower wages and salaries paid by our overseas competitors give them a tremendous advantage in lower costs and prices. In many instances, they also have highly efficient manufacturing facilities and laboratories that were built new after World War II and are among the most modern in the world.

Under these conditions, a United States company is required to meet foreign competition by making the most effective use of all the resources at its command, with new products, new methods of manufacturing and the best quality workmanship. The experience of the General Electric Radio Receiver Department of Utica, N. Y., is a case in point.

As recently as four years ago, we were not certain we could stay in the transistor radio business in the face of Japanese competition. The Japanese radio was priced spectacularly below domestic makes. The flood of radio imports from Japan reached a new high in 1962, capturing two-thirds of the United States transistor radio market and more than 40 per cent of the total radio market.

TO MEET this Japanese competition, and thereby protect employment in the Utica plant, the General Electric people in Utica embarked on a major drive to reduce costs.

The engineers redesigned our radio products to meet the new competition. Management decided to risk a major investment in new production equipment. The factory was renovated and expanded to permit more streamlined assembly lines and swift conveyor systems.

Employes at all levels came up with ideas to improve values and cut costs. New machines stepped up output and held to rigid high-quality standards.

Today, transistor radios made at Utica are successfully competing in the world market. New products have been introduced by the Radio Receiver Department, such as multi-band sets, stereo-FM, portable home intercoms, educational science kits, and a remote control system for model trains—creating new employment opportunities.

The impact on employment at Utica has been impressive. Where four years ago the future of the Radio Receiver Department was in question, it is now employing one-third more people than in 1959.

SUCH SUCCESS stories of competition are the result of three factors—bold business planning, risk-taking investment in new products and facilities, and the spirited cooperation of employes.

Another example of the same principles is our steam turbine business at Schenectady, N.Y., and Lynn, Mass.

Just a few years ago, this business was severely threatened by low-cost competition from Europe. Yet, all-out efforts by all the people involved resulted in about 30 per cent of General Electric shipments of steam turbines last year going to overseas customers.

But the battle for competitive markets is never done. All company employes know that we must keep offering our customers outstanding values, to stay ahead of competition.

Employment comes not only from keeping established businesses competitive, but also from creating new products and industries. Every new business is a risk, and I cannot overemphasize the importance of maintaining in this country adequate profit incentives for the kind of risk-taking investment and innovation that is the true source of new employment.

Planned risk-taking is a necessary source of business growth and therefore the employment growth.

FOR EXAMPLE, the new businesses which General Electric has entered on this basis in the last 10 years, and which are now established in terms of jobs and sales, include such new technologies as nuclear power, space systems, data processing, solid-state electronics, and special chemicals and metals.

More than one quarter of the employment in General Electric today has been created by such new businesses in the last 10 years. Yet these only are the most obvious of the planned risks that the company has taken. Every improvement we make represents a commitment to a risk—the risk of research projects that might end in nothing, of experiments that might fail, or new designs that might not win customers acceptance.

It's on the taking of investment risks such as these, and on the existence of adequate incentives for taking them, that United States industry depends for its capacity to generate profits, to provide employment opportunities and to stay ahead of the rest of the world in this new day of worldwide competition.

Deadlier Than Male

By Earl Ubell

Dr. Robert Yamamoto followed a recipe that seemed to come right out of the medieval books on black magic. His main ingredient: 10,000 virgin female cockroaches housed in a milk can. But out of this brew, he and his colleagues extracted one of the most exciting chemicals in insect control in modern times.

The men at the Department of Agriculture's laboratory at Beltsemit to lure the males. It's but ville, Md., have isolated the chemical that the female roaches emit to lure the males. It's but one of a growing list of such insect lures already available for the gypsy moth and the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Such chemicals open up a new method of insect control with small amounts of chemical that never touch human food, birds or other creatures, and never get into the water supply.

All this should make Rachel Carson very happy; conversely, the insecticide industry may be unhappy about it, because only miniscule amounts of the stuff are required for effective pest control.

In one technique, you simply put the chemical in traps and trap the males as they hunt the females which aren't there. Without males—female ideas to the contrary notwithstanding—the insect population dwindles quickly to zero.

Dr. Yamamoto's milk can illustrates just one of the methods for getting insect attractants. The chemical that came out of it, in amounts so small they cannot be weighed on any scale, sets male cockroaches quivering.

A thousandth of a billionth of a billionth of a gram will do it. The scientists estimate that only 30 molecules will have the desired effect.

Usually, scientists crush the female insects to extract the attractants, as they did with 500,000 female gypsy moths to produce an effective male gypsy moth lure. But the American cockroach resisted this method. So, Dr. Yamamoto set up his milk can.

He placed the virgin females in the can and blew air through the container. The air passed over dry ice, which condensed the chemical given off by the females. He kept this system going day and night for nine months. The goo in the trap yielded 1-100th of a gram of pure cochroach sex attractant.

The story is told in Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by the two chemists, Dr. Martin Jacobson and Morton Beroza, who isolated and identified the attractant of the roach. Working with pinhead amounts of the stuff, they obtained the complete chemical structure of the lure. However, it is proving a difficult chemical to produce synthetically in the test tube.

If they can succeed, the roach lure may be used in the South where the insect infests warehouses. (In the North, it is the German cockroach which gets into homes.) The lure may be able to get the males out of crevices into the open where they can be attacked with other methods.

With the chemistry of the typsy moth lure, the chemists had better luck. They produced a synthetic substance that attracts the male almost as powerfully as the natural material. They call it gyplure, and they are using it in experiments to control the creature.

Dr. Jacobson, in an interview, said that at the moment he and others are working on attractnats for the pink boll worm, the southern army worm and a tobacco insect.

He might even be included in the list of potential Republican presidential nominees.

Need A Project?

Local organizations looking for worthwhile projects might take a cue from the St. Jude Group, Christian Family Movement, of the St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

The group has undertaken the task of clearing a section of the river bank along the River Rd. as part of the beautification program under way here.

The community as a whole would benefit if others would do likewise. Jim Allison, chairman of the Civic and Community Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will be more than happy to coordinate the efforts.

Resodding

By Truman Twill

One of the office charmers returned from her vacation today with her hair dyed — off-white. Everybody commented favorably on the transformation. My comment goes deeper.

I want equal rights.

It was built into my genes to start losing hair before I was 20. Hereditary baldness is a pain in the scalp for millions of men.

Not to knock people who say otherwise but only to confess skepticism. It's doubtful if anything can be done to save men from hereditary baldness. The evil day can be put off, perhaps, but eventually destiny will catch up to them.

Nearly every glamor boy in the entertainment field is compelled to wear a hair piece for public appearances. Even when these photogenic dolls have enough fur on their noggins for ordinary purposes, they need help to fool the camera.

No one has any objection to this. Women sigh and palpitate just as if their cinematic lover boys were haired over like chimps. Their fans would feel let down if they appeared in public without scalp doilies. It would show disregard for their devotees.

SO, THAT'S how it is with actor fellows.
But not for us nonactor fellows.
When we shed, we're shunned.
They make jokes about us and never let us forget how we look.
If we fight back with a touch of resodding, they break up in laughter and make us feel as if we had been watering the liquor or practicing some equally sleazy deceptions.

Suppose I came back from my vacation with a mop of distinguished iron-gray hair. Nothing sets off a man like iron-gray hair, provided there's plenty of it, preferably with a tendency to be wavy.

There wouldn't be a tactful moment. Everybody on the place would feel it and tug at it to see if it was on tight. They'd make me take it off and show them how it worked.

When the novelty had worn off, they still would have the thing on their minds. They'd nod in my direction when talking to strangers and it would be obvious they were passing along the word that "ole wobble-head over thar, he is fooling the public with false hair, har, har."

That is how it would be.

I HAVE BEEN investigating overhead on the overhead. For $500, I could be transformed into a man of distinction. This would include one on the job, one going and one coming, as they said in WPA days.

People would want to know who the fellow is with the beautiful iron gray hair.

But it would work only if I could make a fresh start among strangers. If I tried it with the people who know me, they'd kid me out of my scalp.

Odd Facts

How will space probes make it to Mars and Venus, you ask? If a space ship starts out fast enough (about 25,000 m.p.h., as compared with the Mercury capsules' velocity of approximately 17,500 m.p.h.), it will never fall back toward earth. Earth gravity will slow it down but, because the pull decreases with distance from the earth, the slowdown will never overcome the outward speed.

The wettest state in the U. S. is Louisiana, with a 65-year annual average of 57.34 inches. The driest state is Nevada, with a 66-year annual average of only 8.60 inches. The average annual precipitation for the United States is about 29 inches.

Governmental Flaw Hurts Confidence

By DAVID LAWRENCE

These are sad days — human conflicts and controversies fill the headlines. There's plenty to write about — including labor troubles, problems of foreign policy and emotional demonstrations on the home front for civil rights. But what is more important than the integrity of our government itself?

David Lawrence

What is more distressing than the tendency nowadays to gloss over the unmorality of politics as a custom that has come to stay—as an end that justifies the means? How can this be expected to maintain confidence in American institutions?

Tucked away every now and then in the news dispatches read by the American people are evidences of what is fundamentally wrong with our government, but these arouse no demonstrations or demands that governmental power shall be used only for the good of the people instead of the self-interest of office holders.

Here is an example from a United Press International dispatch this week:

"President Kennedy yesterday nominated Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., as a federal judge for the Western District of Texas. In so doing, he rewarded Thornberry for past support but at the same time created a further problem for himself in the closely divided House rules group.

"Speaker McCormack let it be known he had picked another Texan to fill Thornberry's crucial rules seat, and word was passed among members that (Rep. John) Young was the man. In selecting Young, McCormack obviously acted in the belief Young could be counted on in a pinch to support the leadership even in the face of adverse local interest."

IT'S REPORTED on Capital Hill, moreover, that the administration plans to defer action in the Senate on the Thornberry nomination until sometime toward the end of the present session in order to assure his vote for administration policies in the closely divided rules committee of the House while important legislation is being considered by the committee in the next few months.

The House Rules Committee has a majority of Democrats, but they do not all think as the administration wants them to think. Often legislation that is deemed desirable by the President doesn't get out of this committee.

Why should Rep. Thornberry be "rewarded" with a federal judgeship? He has never served on the bench in any court. Why should the President of the United States give anyone a lifetime post in the judicial system on the basis of favors done of a political nature?

How can there be confidence in the federal judiciary if judgeships become a matter of political patronage? Were there no lawyers or state judges in West Texas better qualified for the judgeship in question?

The argument is made that this has been done in the past by other administrations — as if, once a political ruse is employed, it may readily be taken as an established precedent or practice for the future.

The American people have been told again and again that theirs is a government by the people and for the people and that no selfish interest should prevail against the national interest.

THE FLAW, if any, is in the constitutional system in America which separates the legislative body from the executive and ignores the principle of party responsibility — such as is applied under the British or Canadian parliamentary system.

The answer certainly doesn't lie in using federal judgeships as a "reward" to individual members of Congress elected by the people to deal with public questions on their merits and not as a president may dictate that they shall vote.

Time and again the American Bar Association has cried out that federal judges should be named on the basis of their qualifications and not for political reasons.

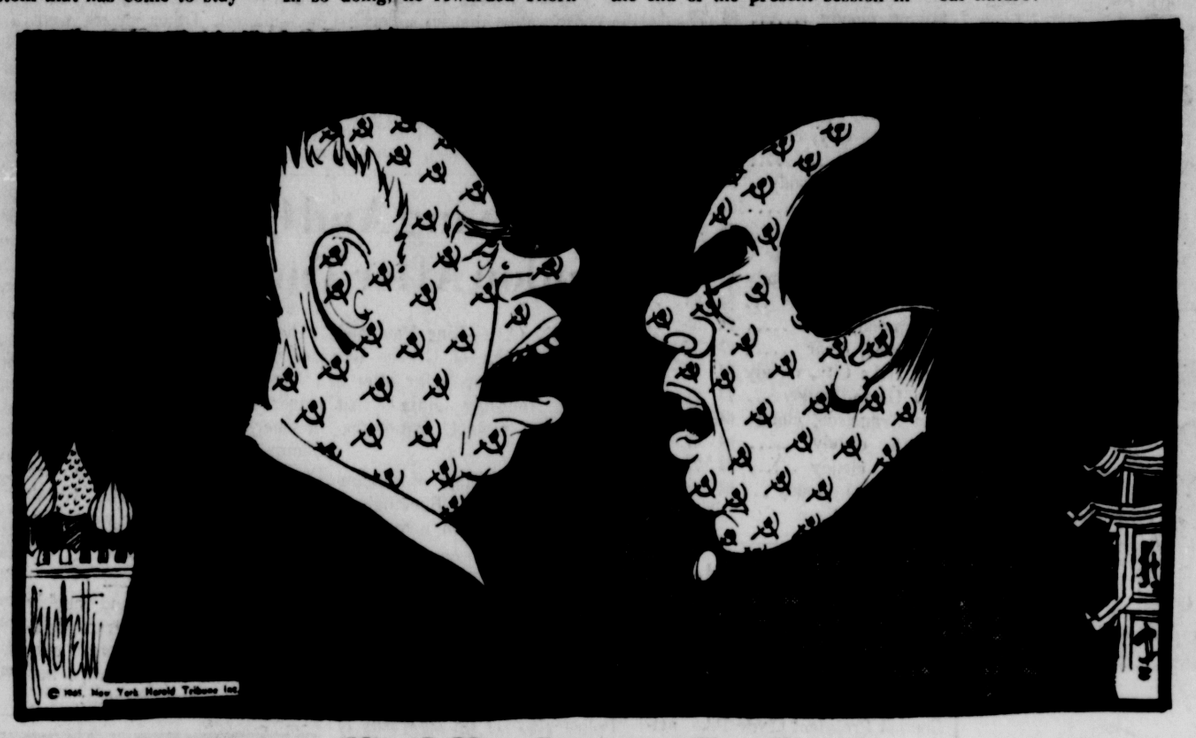

The association has tried, through a specially appointed committee, to classify as "well qualified" or just "qualified" or "not qualified" the names of those under consideration by the Department of Justice for recommendation to the president.

Even this system caters somewhat to the political climate prevailing in the Department of Justice. It should not be necessary for a bar association committee or any other group to remind an administration of the importance of moral integrity in the exercise of governmental powers, especially when Judges are to be appointed.

DOES THE SYSTEM of using judgeships as a "reward" for past political favors mean that judges already on the bench can expect promotions to the U. S. Court of Appeals if they "play ball" with the administration in power?

All these are fundamental questions. They naturally are asked when the American people are told that a congressman who has "played ball" with the administration receives a federal judgeship, whilst other men—as well, if not better, qualified—are passed over.

This is news to many people but not to the politically minded who hold high office and feel they can rely on the continued indifference of the voters to such practices in present day politics.

U.S. Industry Meets Competition Challenge

Ralph Cordiner, chairman of the board of General Electric, was asked by Victor Riesel to outline his company's policies and the reasons for such successful competition. His comment follows.

By RALPH J. CORDINER
Chairman of the Board
General Electric Company

The highly competitive international market that is emerging today represents one of the toughest challenges facing United States business management.

The day is past when we can think in terms of a "domestic market" and a "foreign market," and choose which one to compete in. For an increasingly large proportion of United States businesses, competition is worldwide. Some of our best customers are overseas, and so are some of our most aggressive and successful competitors.

This is a fact which must be in the forefront of all business planning, and profoundly affects the levels of employment in this country.

In many companies today, every employe has a competitive counterpart overseas who is generally receiving considerably less pay and has a lower standard of living.

The lower wages and salaries paid by our overseas competitors give them a tremendous advantage in lower costs and prices. In many instances, they also have highly efficient manufacturing facilities and laboratories that were built new after World War II and are among the most modern in the world.

Under these conditions, a United States company is required to meet foreign competition by making the most effective use of all the resources at its command, with new products, new methods of manufacturing and the best quality workmanship. The experience of the General Electric Radio Receiver Department of Utica, N. Y., is a case in point.

As recently as four years ago, we were not certain we could stay in the transistor radio business in the face of Japanese competition. The Japanese radio was priced spectacularly below domestic makes. The flood of radio imports from Japan reached a new high in 1962, capturing two-thirds of the United States transistor radio market and more than 40 per cent of the total radio market.

TO MEET this Japanese competition, and thereby protect employment in the Utica plant, the General Electric people in Utica embarked on a major drive to reduce costs.

The engineers redesigned our radio products to meet the new competition. Management decided to risk a major investment in new production equipment. The factory was renovated and expanded to permit more streamlined assembly lines and swift conveyor systems.

Employes at all levels came up with ideas to improve values and cut costs. New machines stepped up output and held to rigid high-quality standards.

Today, transistor radios made at Utica are successfully competing in the world market. New products have been introduced by the Radio Receiver Department, such as multi-band sets, stereo-FM, portable home intercoms, educational science kits, and a remote control system for model trains—creating new employment opportunities.

The impact on employment at Utica has been impressive. Where four years ago the future of the Radio Receiver Department was in question, it is now employing one-third more people than in 1959.

SUCH SUCCESS stories of competition are the result of three factors—bold business planning, risk-taking investment in new products and facilities, and the spirited cooperation of employes.

Another example of the same principles is our steam turbine business at Schenectady, N.Y., and Lynn, Mass.

Just a few years ago, this business was severely threatened by low-cost competition from Europe. Yet, all-out efforts by all the people involved resulted in about 30 per cent of General Electric shipments of steam turbines last year going to overseas customers.

But the battle for competitive markets is never done. All company employes know that we must keep offering our customers outstanding values, to stay ahead of competition.

Employment comes not only from keeping established businesses competitive, but also from creating new products and industries. Every new business is a risk, and I cannot overemphasize the importance of maintaining in this country adequate profit incentives for the kind of risk-taking investment and innovation that is the true source of new employment.

Planned risk-taking is a necessary source of business growth and therefore the employment growth.

FOR EXAMPLE, the new businesses which General Electric has entered on this basis in the last 10 years, and which are now established in terms of jobs and sales, include such new technologies as nuclear power, space systems, data processing, solid-state electronics, and special chemicals and metals.

More than one quarter of the employment in General Electric today has been created by such new businesses in the last 10 years. Yet these only are the most obvious of the planned risks that the company has taken. Every improvement we make represents a commitment to a risk—the risk of research projects that might end in nothing, of experiments that might fail, or new designs that might not win customers acceptance.

It's on the taking of investment risks such as these, and on the existence of adequate incentives for taking them, that United States industry depends for its capacity to generate profits, to provide employment opportunities and to stay ahead of the rest of the world in this new day of worldwide competition.

Deadlier Than Male

By Earl Ubell

Dr. Robert Yamamoto followed a recipe that seemed to come right out of the medieval books on black magic. His main ingredient: 10,000 virgin female cockroaches housed in a milk can. But out of this brew, he and his colleagues extracted one of the most exciting chemicals in insect control in modern times.

The men at the Department of Agriculture's laboratory at Beltsemit to lure the males. It's but ville, Md., have isolated the chemical that the female roaches emit to lure the males. It's but one of a growing list of such insect lures already available for the gypsy moth and the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Such chemicals open up a new method of insect control with small amounts of chemical that never touch human food, birds or other creatures, and never get into the water supply.

All this should make Rachel Carson very happy; conversely, the insecticide industry may be unhappy about it, because only miniscule amounts of the stuff are required for effective pest control.

In one technique, you simply put the chemical in traps and trap the males as they hunt the females which aren't there. Without males—female ideas to the contrary notwithstanding—the insect population dwindles quickly to zero.

Dr. Yamamoto's milk can illustrates just one of the methods for getting insect attractants. The chemical that came out of it, in amounts so small they cannot be weighed on any scale, sets male cockroaches quivering.

A thousandth of a billionth of a billionth of a gram will do it. The scientists estimate that only 30 molecules will have the desired effect.

Usually, scientists crush the female insects to extract the attractants, as they did with 500,000 female gypsy moths to produce an effective male gypsy moth lure. But the American cockroach resisted this method. So, Dr. Yamamoto set up his milk can.

He placed the virgin females in the can and blew air through the container. The air passed over dry ice, which condensed the chemical given off by the females. He kept this system going day and night for nine months. The goo in the trap yielded 1-100th of a gram of pure cochroach sex attractant.

The story is told in Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by the two chemists, Dr. Martin Jacobson and Morton Beroza, who isolated and identified the attractant of the roach. Working with pinhead amounts of the stuff, they obtained the complete chemical structure of the lure. However, it is proving a difficult chemical to produce synthetically in the test tube.

If they can succeed, the roach lure may be used in the South where the insect infests warehouses. (In the North, it is the German cockroach which gets into homes.) The lure may be able to get the males out of crevices into the open where they can be attacked with other methods.

With the chemistry of the typsy moth lure, the chemists had better luck. They produced a synthetic substance that attracts the male almost as powerfully as the natural material. They call it gyplure, and they are using it in experiments to control the creature.

Dr. Jacobson, in an interview, said that at the moment he and others are working on attractnats for the pink boll worm, the southern army worm and a tobacco insect.

Miss Deringer, retiring after 40 years' service in the school district, was librarian, English and mathematics teacher, and well known throughout the district for her other school and community activities.

Currently residing near Canfield, the grey - haired instructor taught a year at Mt. Nebo School before starting her long career in this district.

She kept score at basketball games and was coach of the girls' team when such teams were organized.

Miss Deringer plans a trip to Alaska later this summer, and will become a librarian for student nurses at an Akron hospital.

Stephen Symbolik of Youngstown was hired as art teacher and social studies instructor.

The board approved the budget, which includes $368,950 in the general fund, up from $351,196 for 1963, an increase due largely to boosts in teachers salaries and additional expenses for the new special education class and growing enrollment, Joseph Driscoll, executive head, said.

Contract for school bus tires was granted the Firestone Tire Co. store at Columbiana, one of three bidders.

Mrs. Esther Chesney, school nurse, was hired to work four days a week in 1963-64 instead of three days a week, as in the past year.

A year's leave of absence was granted Dave Brothers of Columbiana, bus driver. Applications may be filed with the board for the post.

The board set a policy that married students may not serve as cheerleaders, majorettes or on varsity sport teams. Also, all athletes must show evidence of their own accident insurance coverage or obtain school insurance.

It was announced used students desks will be given free to anyone desiring them Monday and Friday at 1 at the New Waterford school. The board purchased new seats for a first grade room at Waterford.

Milk bids will be opened at the next meeting Aug. 8.

Top Russian Spy Defects To Britain

LONDON (AP)—Defection of a top Russian spy to the West raised speculation today that his flight might force the Soviet Union to revamp its intelligence apparatus.

The British government said the defector, a senior Soviet intelligence officer, was turned over to Britain after weeks of interrogation by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in Washington.

The British said he was as important as any defector on either side since World War II.

His identity was kept secret. Officials said he is being held at a secret headquarters in Britain for fear the Russians might try to kidnap or kill him.

"His life is in positive danger," one official said.

An informed source said the Russian contacted an American embassy in an Allied capital after revelations at the Moscow trial of Col. Oleg Penkovsky, a Soviet official shot last May for passing information to the British.

Penkovsky compromised a number of Soviet agents, a move that apprently prompted the Russian now held by the British to defect.

British officials ranked the defector with George Blake, a British double agent who gave the Russians names and locations of British agents and their methods.

The discovery of Blake's treachery forced the British to reorganize their entire intelligence network in the Middle East and Eastern Europe. He was jailed in 1961 for 42 years, the longest sentence for espionage in British history.

Informants said the Russian has given invaluable information on the Soviet espionage methods and its spy network in the West.

'Bootlegging' Probe Asked

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff instructed the police department to investigate possible "bootlegging" at an East End home following testimony this morning in an assault and battery case.

The judge asked the check after finding John Holland, 473 Mulberry St., innocent of the assault and battery charge filed by Miss Mary Allen, 1213 Erie St.

In dismissing the charge, the judge said the mere touching does not indicate intent, which must be shown in assault cases.

During the hearing, Miss Allen testified Holland "twisted my wrist" and asked for something to drink. He refused to leave at her request, she said.

Holland testified that he had gone to the Allen home to pay a bill he owed for drinks and an argument followed over $5 in change on the table.

Recalled to the stand, Miss Allen vigorously denied selling Holland any liquor.

"We drink at his house and he drinks at ours," she declared.

After dismissing the charge, Judge Chertoff asked Police Capt. Robert H. Pyle, acting chief, to investigate, declaring: "The court is fearful that some bootlegging is going on."

New Brighton Driver Seeks Trial By Jury

A New Brighton motorist, accused of drunken driving, filed a request today in Municipal Court for a jury trial.

Atty. George Aronson submitted the request to Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after entering an innocent plea for James Burford, 53, who was arrested by police early Wednesday after his auto damaged 10 guard rail posts on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd."

Judge Chertoff instructed City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and Atty. Aronson to set a date "within a reasonable time" for the trial.

United Local To Seek New Levy In Fall Vote

United Local School District Board of Education today submitted a resolution to the County Election Board asking a vote at the Nov. 5 general election on a new 3-mill levy for operating expenses.

If approved, the new levy would be in effect for two years.

The school district previously filed for renewal of an existing 6-mill current expense levy.

Khruschev, Kadar Huddle In Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP)—The eyes of the world are on the conference in Moscow between the Soviet and Chinsee Communists.

But Premier Khrushchev and Janos Kadar of Hungary are holding talks in the Kremlin simultaneously that could decide the fate of the fragile Communist experiment in relaxing "hard fist" rule.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Khrushchev and Kadar Thursday discussed the "achievements of Hungary's national economy and the moral and political unity of the Hungarian people."

It said they "also spoke of plans for the further economic and cultural progress of the country."

The Tass report hinted that the ideological dispute between the Soviet Union and Red China also figured in the talks.

But the attention of Western observers was drawn to the references to the moral and political unity and the cultural progress of Hungary.

Kadar is believed to have come to Moscow to plead the case for his liberalization policies aimed at winning support from the non-Communist majority of the Hungarian people.

In the past year, Kadar has:

Kicked notorious Stalinists out of top jobs in the party and government.

Loosened the tight rein on Hungary's sullen intellecturals and artists.

Negotiated with the Vatican for a thaw in relations with the Catholic Church and for the release of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

Granted amnesty to about 10,000 Freedom Fighters of 1956 and political prisoners.

And warmed up frozen relations with the United States.

Chester Mayor Fines Trucker In Accident

Junior Lee Butler, 31, of Short Creek, W. Va., cited in Chester Monday after a truck-car collision, was fined $10 and costs Thursday by Mayor Harry Abrams for failure to have his vehicle under control.

The brakes on Butler's truck failed on Carolina Ave. and it collided with a car operated by Harold West of East Liverpool, which careened into a halted truck.

John H. Stoffer, 24, of Barton was fined $10 and costs yesterday by Mayor Abrams for puling a trailer which had invalid registration. He was cited yesterday afternoon on Carolina Ave. by Police Chief Clarence Lennens.

Court Lacks Power To Appoint Attorney

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today clarified an article in Thursday's Review, pointing out his court does not have the authority to appoint attorneys for defendants.

In a report of a hearing yesterday for Herbert Virgil Mellott of W. 8th St., The Review erroneously indicated that Judge Chertoff had explained to Mellott the court had the power to appoint counsel.

After the judge's explanation, Atty. George Aronson volunteered to represent Mellott at the preliminary hearing scheduled Monday.

Weirton Driver Fined $10 On Parking Count

Eli Dragisich of Weirton was fined $10 and costs Thursday by Squire Harry Lytton of Newell on charges of illegal parking on State Route 2 in back of Chester.

The citation was issued by Constable J. Carl Durham of Newell in enforcing State Road Commission regulations requiring that all vehicles must be parked at least four feet from the highway.

Durham and Deputy Rex Cowey of the Hancock County sheriff's office have made a number of arrests recently of motorists parking illegally along State Route 2. A dozen were cited Saturday night and the officers promised to continue to enforce the state regulation.

Ohio Doctor Dies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Leonard C. Nagel, 59, of suburban Lyndhurst, a past president of the Ohio Surgical Society and chief of the Department of Orthopedics at Brentwood Hospital, died Thursday.

Soviets And Chinese Fail To Meet Again

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian and Chinese Communist delegates failed to meet again today for their truce talks as Western observers speculated that further discussion between the Communist giants was futile.

The talks were recessed Thursday and also on Tuesday without explanation. Some informants said the delegates were looking for a face-saving way to end the talks.

The Chinese delegates, headed by Teng Hsiao-ping, drove from their Lenin Hills residence to the Chinese Embassy. Russian delegates did not show up at the conference hall either.

Western correspondents spotted Teng strolling with other Chinese delegates at the rear of the embassy grounds. Embassy attaches said "this is out territory" and told the correspondents to go away.

The Chinese and Russian negotiators, it was indicated, have not been able to agree even on a basis to begin reconciliation of their bitter dispute of the course world communism should take.

The Chinese proposed 25 points of discussion in a letter June 14 that also attacked Premier Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy. The Russians rejected those terms of discussion, precipitating a further airing of charges and counter charges.

Peking continued its attack Thursday, throwing doubt on the continued usefulness of the mutual assistance treaty Communist China and the Soviet Union signed in 1950.

Foreign minister Chen Yi charged that the Soviet Union had prejected its ideological quarrel to the government level. He took the initiative at separate receptions in Peking for representatives from Outer Mongolia and North Korea.

Jury Studies Verdict In Traffic Death Case

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court jury of six men and six women today was deliberating a verdict in the trial of Wayne Hillyer, 33, of Hanoverton charged with second degree manslaughter as a result of a traffic death.

Judge Joel H. Sharp presented his charge to the panel this morning. Hillyer was indicted in connection with the death of Earl McIntosh, patron of a Hanoverton tavern into which Hillyer's auto crashed in January 1962.

Hillyer testified that he put his auto into passing gear, the foot pedal became stuck and he reached down to free it and lost control. He said his head struck the rear view mirror, and he remembered nothing after that. The prosecution claims he violated three traffic laws — speeding, reckless operation and drunken driving.

Feud Erupts Into Gunplay With 2 Dead

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—A long, bitter feud between two mountain families in West Virginia exploded into a gun battle Thursday when police attempted to serve a warrant at the home of Ernest Moore, near here.

When the gunsmoke cleared, Moore, 67, and his son, Andrew, 23, were dead. The elder Moore's wife, Garnet, 57, suffered a head cut and was charged with resisting an officer.

Three State Troopers, who approached the house with two Manawha County sheriff's deputies Thursday afternoon, recounted this story:

The Moores had been feuding for years with the O.F. Miles family, owners of adjacent mountain property. Miles had sworn out a warrant against the Moores last week, but the Moores chased away officers four times as they attempted to serve the document.

Thursday Charles Walker, Kanawha County prosecutor, issued a warrant for the arrest of the Moores. Deputies Willie Gibbs and Lawrence Carpenter joined State Troopers D. A. Nickerson, C. N. Cooke and J. O. Blevins in another attempt to get the warrant served.

Gibbs knocked on the door of the Moore cabin and was told by Mrs. Moore, "You'll be shot if you don't get out of here."

Seconds later, a shotgun blast ripped through the screen door. Gibbs' face felt the breeze.

The gunshot was the signal for Cooke and Blevins to storm through the back door. They opened fire on Moore and his son as they burst in.

Moore was hit three times and his son was shot twice. None of the officers was hit. Funeral attendants said the officers' shots were fired at such close range that five slugs passed through the bodies of Moore and his son.

Miles complained to police that the Moores had been using his private road. He also said he suspected the feud had been responsible for the burning of his barn and the snipping of his fences in recent days.

Ohio

government operations, may have some recommendations for consideration, they added.

The legislature completed major work June 28 but returned Wednesday for a two-day cleanup session.

On the final day, lawmakers approved additional common pleas judges for several counties and revived and passed a previously defeated bill appropriating nearly $1 million to pay sundry claims against the state, which cannot be sued.

Cuyahoga county received two additional judges. Counties getting one more judge each were Clermont, Lake, Lucas, Licking, Hamilton, Trumbull and Montgomery.

Enactment of the Sundry Claims Bill followed Senate refusal to delete a $32,000 tax refund to the Cincinnati Traction Co., and $1,829 to make good penitentiary inmate earnings embezzled from a fund by a fellow convict.

They also made a $14,000 award for University Hospital bills of Eldon L. Barnett, East Liverpool, a prisoner injured while working in a state park.

Lost for lack of support were administration - backed measures to increase the state's liquor markup and to give the state custody of unclaimed bank deposits, stock dividends and similar funds.

Last-minute attempts to work out an acceptable compromise on a new Sunday closing measure also failed.

Resignation of two senators and appointment of their successors marked last day activities.

Sen. Lowell Fess, R-Greene, resigned to accept membership on the State Personnel Board of Review. Sen. Robert Zellar, R-Muskingum, handed in his previously announced resignation to take a post on the Board of Tax Appeals.

Republican senators picked Rep. Max Dennis, R - Clinton, who resigned from the House, to replace Fess. They named Zanesville attorney Tom Moorehead, former congressman and state senator, to succeed Zellar.

Fess served the 5th-6th Senatorial District since 1953. He previously served four terms in the House, starting in 1945.

Zellar represented the new 9th-14th-15th-16th Senatorial District, stretching from Delaware County to Washington County, along with Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens. Reapportionment combined Mechem's former district with that served by Zellar.

Mechem has said he will seek re-election next year from the combined district, which will nave only one senator next session. Moorehead is not expected to oppose him.

Before senators quit work, they confirmed 16 more appointments to the Industrial Development Advisory Council. Nine appointments by the governor were approved earlier.

General

Campbell, who weighed about 220 and wore a beard, was a civilian who was visiting his friend Shadrach in the 2nd Ohio Volunteer Regiment near Shelbyville, Ky., when he decided to go along on the planned raid.

—:—

ANDREWS and 19 others traveled in small groups — disguised as civilians — south to Marietta, Ga., early in April. They were bent on taking a train and racing north, tearing up tracks and burning bridges on the vital Atlanta to Chattanooga line which linked the eastern and western armies of the Confederacy and was a main supply channel to the key city of Altanta.

Staying overnight at Marietta, the group boarded a northbound train, pulled by "The General," on the morning of April 12. They rode as far as Big Shanty, where there was a breakfast stop, then—as the crew and most of the Southern passengers dined — seized the locomotive and three lead cars and headed toward Chattanooga—87 miles away.

THE RAIDERS, who had cut telegraph wires to prevent capture on their flight, had to halt at one station for an hour for southbound trains on the single track, then continued north, stopping occasionally to rip up rails and snip telegraph wires.

William Fuller, 25-year-old conductor of the stolen train, ran on foot from Big Shanty for 2½ miles to obtain a push car on which he began to pursue the federals. He came upon a stalled passenger train which he commandeered, returned to foot again to pass a track obstruction left by the Yankees, then found another locomotive, "The Texas," on which he resumed the rail chase.

THE ANDREWS party, made aware of the close race by the whistle of the pursuing train, pressed on. Finally, fuel exhausted and water supply low, "The General" began to slow down about 19 miles south of Chattanooga and the men were told to jump from the train and attempt to escape.

They tried in vain to ignite a wooden bridge over the Chickamauga River by setting fire to a freight car and uncoupling it. Then one by one they leaped from the slowing train.

Campbell and Shadrach, among the first off, were quickly captured by rebels with a dog pack. Pittenger and all the others were also taken prisoner, transferred to Chattanooga and then to Atlanta.

Andrews was convicted as a spy, and was hanged at Atlanta June 7 after he escaped from jail but was recaptured in four days. On June 18, Campbell, Shadrach and five others were taken to the scaffold.

—:—

THE SURVIVORS suffered through deplorable conditions in the jail, and eight managed to escape in the fall and gain freedom. Pittenger and five others, unable to get away, were later exchanged.

"The General," little damaged by the eight - hour flight in which it at times reached speeds of 60 miles an hour, later helped move supplies and wounded at the Battle of Kennesaw Mountain in 1864.

Its most perilous incident occurred in August 1864 when during the final days of the seige of Atlanta, Georgia militia set fire to an ammunition train in the rail yards and gigantic explosions rocked the yards, destroying the cars, two locomotives and badly damaging "The General." It was repaired, however, rebuilt in 1871 and continued in use.

IN 1891 the old locomotive was slated for scrapping, but its historical value was promoted, and it finally was restored to original condition and placed on display at Chattanooga.

The museum car, built in 1913, contains scaled dioramas depicting the 1862 chase and other railroad history, along with a $2,500 painting of Big Shanty.

There are many area residents, unfamiliar with Civil War history, who mistakenly believe "The General" was involved somehow with the 1863 Confederate raid of Gen. John Morgan into Ohio.

The locomotive had no connection with the cavalry venture other than to represent with the Morgan raid two bold military endeavors behind enemy lines in which Columbiana and Jefferson Counties played significant roles.

but an officer said it apparently was fired accidentally.

As the demonstrators retreated quietly, Negroes who had crowded street corners began jeering officers. Rocks and bottles began to fly.

The helmeted troops and the city's riot squad charged behind a staccato barrage of tear gas grenades. The Negroes fled.

Stones and bricks were hurled at officers and motorists. Windows were smashed in several buildings. A car and an unoccupied store building were burned. Streets were blocked in some places by upended garbage bins and piles of rocks.

Troopers, some of them carrying electric prod sticks, and city policemen formed in columns of twos and cleared Negroes from the street and sidewalks.

Twenty-eight Negroes were arrested during the night, plus 48 during sporadic attempts at daytime demonstrations. Most were charged with disorderly conduct.

The demonstration came less than 24 hours after a similar march climaxed with rioting by bands of Negroes who battled policemen and hurled missiles through store windows.

Negroes resumed mass protests July 5 after presenting city officials and business leaders with proposals calling for almost complete desegregation of public and private facilities.

Development Group's Incorporation Studied

Articles of incorporation for an area industrial development organization will be considered by a citizens' steering committee when it meets Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

W. D. Ogilvie, Chamber president, and Alvin Babb, chairman of the industrial development committee, are co-chairmen of the steering committee.

The rescue experts found fresh footprints and a pack of matches which apparently had been dropped recently. However, neither discovery could be linked definitely to the missing boys.

Searchlights lit the area as rescue operations continued through the night.

The three boys left home Thursday morning. A search was begun when they failed to return for supper.

Owned by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Co., the mine was abandoned about 20 years ago.

Ohio Physician, Wife Vacationing Killed In Crash

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — A vacationing Ohio physician and his wife were killed early today in a fiery crash on U.S. 31 just north of the Mason-Oceana County line.

Sheriff's men identified the victims as Frederick W. Tillotson, M.D., 45, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and his wife, Elizabeth, 43, parents of three children.

Deputies said the victims' car burst into flame after being struck from the rear by one driven by Gerald Setterington, 38, of Pentwater. Setterington and a passenger, Richard Tallquist, 34, of Scottville Rt. 1, suffered only minor injuries.

Officers said Setterington was jailed and a warrant charging him with negligent homicide was being sought.

Stolen City Auto Damaged In Fire

A car reportedly stolen from its parking spot on Harker Ave. Thursday night about 9:30 was discovered two hours later afire on a road near Beaver Creek.

Ohioville Police Chief Bernard Zlatovich said the car is owned by Bernadine Riccitelli of Park Way.

Her nephew, Orlando Vallese, 1880 Anderson Blvd., parked the car on Harker Ave.

Zlatovich said a passerby discovered the vehicle on fire on the Tuscarawas Rd. Ext. near Wilson Hill in the Beaver Creek Area.

An empty gasoline can was found on the front seat and the car was partially pushed over the hillside, the chief said.

The Ohioville fire department extinguished the blaze, which gutted the interior of the 1955 Chevrolet. Zlatovich and Midland police investigated.

Besides Wirtz, the members present were AFL-CIO President George Meany, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and Stuart Saunders, president of the Norfolk & Western Railway.

George Harrison, an AFL-CIO president and president of the Railway and Steamship Clerks, is expected to join them today. The sixth member of the panel, Joseph Block, board chairman of Inland Steel Co. of Chicago, is on a western trip and isn't expected to be on hand.

Temperance, Please!

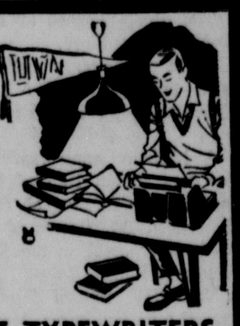

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A member of the original Congress, Dr. Benjamin Rush, once complained that American commanders drank too much. He proposed that Congress ration intoxicants to generals, and that any officer who consumed more than one quart of whisky or got drunk more than once in 24 hours be reprimanded at the head of his unit.

Feud Erupts Into Gunplay With 2 Dead

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—A long, bitter feud between two mountain families in West Virginia exploded into a gun battle Thursday when police attempted to serve a warrant at the home of Ernest Moore, near here.

When the gunsmoke cleared, Moore, 67, and his son, Andrew, 23, were dead. The elder Moore's wife, Garnet, 57, suffered a head cut and was charged with resisting an officer.

Three State Troopers, who approached the house with two Kanawha County sheriff's deputies Thursday afternoon, recounted this story:

The Moores had been feuding for years with the O.F. Miles family, owners of adjacent mountain property. Miles had sworn out a warrant against the Moores last week, but the Moores chased away officers four times as they attempted to serve the document.

Thursday Charles Walker, Kanawha County prosecutor, issued a warrant for the arrest of the Moores. Deputies Willie Gibbs and Lawrence Carpenter joined State Troopers D. A. Nickerson, C. N. Cooke and J. O. Blevins in another attempt to get the warrant served.

Gibbs knocked on the door of the Moore cabin and was told by Mrs. Moore, "You'll be shot if you don't get out of here."

Seconds later, a shotgun blast ripped through the screen door. Gibbs' face felt the breeze.

The gunshot was the signal for Cooke and Blevins to storm through the back door. They opened fire on Moore and his son as they burst in.

Moore was hit three times and his son was shot twice. None of the officers was hit. Funeral attendants said the officers' shots were fired at such close range that five slugs passed through the bodies of Moore and his son.

Miles complained to police that the Moores had been using his private road. He also said he suspected the feud had been responsible for the burning of his barn and the snipping of his fences in recent days.

government operations, may have some recommendations for consideration, they added.

The legislature completed major work June 28 but returned Wednesday for a two-day cleanup session.

On the final day, lawmakers approved additional common pleas judges for several counties and revived and passed a previously defeated bill appropriating nearly $1 million to pay sundry claims against the state, which cannot be sued.

Cuyahoga county received two additional judges. Counties getting one more judge each were Clermont, Lake, Lucas, Licking, Hamilton, Trumbull and Montgomery.

Enactment of the Sundry Claims Bill followed Senate refusal to delete a $32,000 tax refund to the Cincinnati Traction Co., and $1,829 to make good penitentiary inmate earnings embezzled from a fund by a fellow convict.

They also made a $14,000 award for University Hospital bills of Eldon L. Barnett, East Liverpool, a prisoner injured while working in a state park.

Lost for lack of support were administration - backed measures to increase the state's liquor markup and to give the state custody of unclaimed bank deposits, stock dividends and similar funds.

Last-minute attempts to work out an acceptable compromise on a new Sunday closing measure also failed.

Resignation of two senators and appointment of their successors marked last day activities.

Sen. Lowell Fess, R-Greene, resigned to accept membership on the State Personnel Board of Review. Sen. Robert Zellar, R-Muskingum, handed in his previously announced resignation to take a post on the Board of Tax Appeals.

HAIR OILINESS

Q. What is the cause of excessive oiliness of the hair?

A. Some people have dry scalps, some oily scalps, and some inbetween. When the "normal" scalp more or less suddenly becomes too active in producing oil, a change of shampoo may be called for. Some medicated shampoos tend to make the scalp oily. Switch to a different brand of shampoo and see if that helps.

NYLON

Q. My skin breaks out every time I wear nylon stockings or underclothing. How can this "allergy" be overcome?

A. So far as is known, there is no really effective way to desensitize against nylon. Just avoid wearing nylon clothing.

VITAMIN K—VEINS

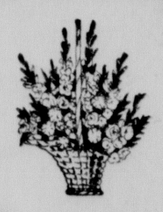

Q. Would taking vitamin K fade out these little broken veins that have become very unwelcome guests on my legs?

A. Taking vitamin K would probably do little good. About the only way to dismiss these unwelcome "guests" is to inject each vein with a destructive chemical solution. Unfortunately, the departing guest often leaves a ghost—a thin white line where the vein resided. The cosmetic result may not be entirely satisfactory.

HAIR OILINESS

Q. What is the cause of excessive oiliness of the hair?

A. Some people have dry scalps, some oily scalps, and some inbetween. When the "normal" scalp more or less suddenly becomes too active in producing oil, a change of shampoo may be called for. Some medicated shampoos tend to make the scalp oily. Switch to a different brand of shampoo and see if that helps.

NYLON

Q. My skin breaks out every time I wear nylon stockings or underclothing. How can this "allergy" be overcome?

A. So far as is known, there is no really effective way to desensitize against nylon. Just avoid wearing nylon clothing.

VITAMIN K—VEINS

Q. Would taking vitamin K fade out these little broken veins that have become very unwelcome guests on my legs?

A. Taking vitamin K would probably do little good. About the only way to dismiss these unwelcome "guests" is to inject each vein with a destructive chemical solution. Unfortunately, the departing guest often leaves a ghost—a thin white line where the vein resided. The cosmetic result may not be entirely satisfactory.

'New' Issues In Sports Termed Old Chestnuts

Are the present squabbles over umpires' vision, baseball players' ability or evaluation of pitchers any different from 50 years ago?

No, Red Donley, sports broadcaster for Pittsburgh's television station WIIC, told Kiwanis Club members and guests at a luncheon meeting Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

The issues which mark the American sports scene hardly are changed from those of 1910, according to the ex - Steubenville sportscaster who covered games in East Liverpool at times in past years.

Referring to sports pamphlets of a half century ago, Donley read quotes from managers and baseball writers on topics which would have fit into today's headlines.

The issues included critical comparisons of active players with those of former years, condemnation of club owners airing business matters in public, complaints against the caliber of umpires and blasting of the earned run average as a valid judgment of pitcher ability.

Football was no different, according to Donley, reading 1911 criticism of holding on the gridiron and avowals that the sport was better liked than baseball as the national pastime.

Donley said his reading had brought him to the conclusion that football recruiting very likely stemmed from World War I Army camp efforts to obtain good players for service grid teams. Some gridders were encouraged to enlist at a certain camp with the promise they wouldn't go overseas, he conjectured.

However, seven top players for one camp ended up across the ocean when a key game was lost, he commented laughingly.

The braggadocio of Cassius Clay and other current if less vocal fighters is no novelty on the sports scene. Donley quoted a lengthy prediction of victory by Harry Greb just before he was defeated by Gene Tunney.

Donley read a letter by James Whitcomb Riley written 66 years ago which the sportscaster said he feels reveals the key to the lack of communication between generations.

Riley said adults and their children fail to understand each other because of different attitudes toward time; the mother and father think of time as a chief factor because of their responsibilities.

The child, however, has a natural revulsion toward any measure of time or control over his regime of recreation.

The only one to accompany a child should be a grandmother or a grandfather, Donley concluded, because only the very young or very old can breach time with a common contempt for the concept.

He was introduced by Alex Kidd. Merrill Hall, president, was in charge.

Jet's Dummy Rockets Fatal To 2 Men, Injure 14 Others

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An Air Force jet fired a brace of dummy rockets at a crowded control bunker Thursday and one of them zipped through a narrow observation slot, killing two men and injuring the 14 others inside.

The 4-foot-long rocket spattered against the back of the narrow trench, tossing about heavy planks, sand bags and electronic equipment. The shell did not contain explosives.

The fighter jet, an F100 from Cannon Air Force Base, N.M., already had made one pass, shooting at trucks, tanks and other targets during a competitive strafing drill at Eglin Air Force Base, said A.H. Gautier, 47, a civil service planning officer watching the drill from the bunker as a guest. He escaped serious injury.

"The pilot said he saw a tank truck and would come back for a rocket salveo," Gautier said. "He apparently got mixed up and came in on the bunker."

Those killed were Lt. Col. Sherman Richard Smith, 42, of Mary Ester, Fla., an air-ground operations officer, and Capt. Mercer R. Ferguson, 26, of the 428th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Cannon AFB. Ferguson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay G. Ferguson of Waukegan, Ill.

The bunker is about 20 feet long, 4 feet wide and 4½ feet deep.

Chamber Hits At Midland's School Board

A report presented to the Board of Directors of the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce by its school committee has attacked the policies of the Midland Board of Education, declaring that its interest centers primarily on "politics" and athletics," assigning education to third place.

The report was presented by Fred G. Wilson, chairman of the school committee, when the Chamber board met Wednesday night. It said in part:

"First: The school board's primary interest is to operate as a political unit by observing the wishes and decisions of their political party in the hiring of personnel, dealing with faculty members and the operation of the school system.

"Second: Their interest in athletics, in which the board seems to take away the responsibilities of the high school principal and administration in the operation of an athletic school program. The coaches of the various activities deal directly with board members, instead of their direct supervisors.

"Their third interest lies in education and because their main interest is in the field of politics and athletics, our school system suffers and this reflects back to the people of the community because they have made this condition possible. The primary function of a good school system must be to train the minds of our children."

The committee's report also declared that the board should "act as a policymaking body only and the operation phase of the educational program must be the responsibility of the administrative staff."

It charged that "caucus meetings are held in places other than the board meeting room and motions are made at board meetings without explanation as to the actions taken."

The report concluded: "If the Chamber can, through publicity, arouse the citizens as to their responsibility of forcing the school board to take the necessary steps based on good sound judgment to give our children the educational advantages due them, then the Chamber will have done its duty to the community."

The Chamber Board also discussed plans to hold "Dollar Days" Aug. 6-7 and to ask Borough Council for help concerning out-of-town peddlers.

The board met at the McGeehan Agency with Charles R. Schmitt, president, presiding. Howard Nophsker, retail division chairman, reported that Dollar Days will be held Tuesday, Aug. 6, and Wednesday, Aug. 7, and maybe Thursday, Aug. 8. He said Council will be asked permission to allow free parking at meters in the business district on Aug. 6 and 7.

He also announced that a new weekly sales promotion will get underway the same dates and for members of the Chamber only.

Following a report by Earl Rankin, executive secretary, on complaints of merchants concerning peddlers, directors approved a motion to ask Council to investigate the status of certain peddlers and for permission to erect "No Soliciting" signs at each end of the borough.

The directors set Aug. 4 for the annual Chamber family picnic and gave the picnic committee, headed by Marvin Bahm, the authority to pick the site.

Solicitations were approved for the Midland Athletic Mothers Association, First Baptist Church and the Fairview Grange.

Cuban Agents

U.S. Tries To Enlist British Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

—:—

CUBAN AGENTS: The State Department says it has made two attempts in recent weeks to get the British to bar use of Grand Cayman Island as a transfer point for subversives from Cuba.

Press Officer Richard I. Phillips said the situation was taken up with the British June 7 and June 26. The United States contends the agents are flown to the small British-owned island south of Cuba and transferred to commercial airliners to go to other countries in the Western Hemisphere.

In London, a British foreign office spokesman said, "We are discussing the matter with the Americans, but have not yet given them our reply."

The State Department said some 20 potential subversives had been flown from Cuba to other countries via Grand Cayman Island. It said four of these had been picked up by authorities in El Salvador.

—:—

EGGS: The Public Health Service says 775 persons in 25 states and the District of Columbia have been hit by salmonella derby—an intestinal infection — from eating cracked or unclean eggs.

In issuing a warning against buying cracked eggs, it said the outbreak was first noted in a New York city last March and had since spread.

The Public Health Service said it had defined the source of some of the cases but did not name it. It also did not name hospitals where patients had been treated for salmonella derby.

A spokesman said the disease could produce gastroenteritis, upset stomach and diarrhea, with a fever in extreme cases.

HELPING TEACHERS: A $2-million distress fund for teachers is being raised by the National Education Association.

The drive was spurred by a dispute in Utah where teachers are boycotting public schools pending settlement of a dispute with Gov. George Clyde about increased state appropriations for education. The dispute could throw 8,000-10,000 teachers out of work next fall.

Although Utah is the only place where the fund may be needed now, the NEA said it would be at the disposal of teachers elsewhere should the need arise.

The fund was authorized at a closed session of the NEA's board of directors in Detroit last week.

Meanwhile, Orlando Vallese, 1880 Anderson Blvd., reported his auto was hit by a combination of vandalism and thievery early yesterday while it was parked on Harker Ave. Vallese said he left the auto for about a half an hour, returning to find the windshield and radio antenna had been broken and the hubcaps had been stolen.

The club will meet again July 25.

Vernon Martin, 38, of Alliance and George Moore, 48, of Chester R.D. 1 were cited by the chief. Martin, who posted a $15.50 bond for a hearing July 22, before Mayor Harry Abrams, was cited at 2:25 and Moore, slated for a hearing Thursday, was arrested at 2:50 p.m.

Birns Claims Alibi In Gold Slaying Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—Alex (Shondor) Birns has told authorities he had no contact with Mervin Gold on the night Gold was slain and that he has an alibi witness to prove his story.

The widow of Gold, a financial promoter who used stolen Canadian bonds as bank loan security, had informed police her husband left their Pepper Pike home last Friday night, a few hours before his death, to meet Birns, 58-year-old longtime Cleveland rackets figure.

"Shondor says that, despite what Mrs. Gold said about Mervin leaving the house that night to keep an appointment with Birns, he never saw Gold at all that night," Sheriff James J. McGettrick said Thursday.

Gold's body, trussed in a ragged pink blanket, was found in the trunk of his parked car on Chagrin River Road in suburban Solon last Monday night. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said he believed the killing had taken place elsewhere on Friday night.

Gerber said an inquet for 9 a.m. next Wednesday at the Lakeside Avenue Courthouse and both Birns and Mrs. Gold wdre subpoenaed to appear, along with "some other persons," Gerber said. The coroner set a $50,000 bond to guarantee Birns' appearance at the inquest.

Yule In July? That's Scene At Wellsville

Don't get panicky — there's still over 100 shopping days left until Christmas, even though Yule decorations have been erected at Wellsville.

Or maybe it is the cold weather the area has been experiencing that fooled the members of the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce.

But it's not a joke, as a string of decorations was hung across Main St. near the Post Office Thursday afternoon.

Atty. William Bush, Chamber secretary said the decorations were installed to show residents what the Chamber plans to purchase this year for the business district.

"And they sure looked yesterday," he said, commenting that many did double-takes when they saw the decorations.

The strings of lights will remain up over the weekend. A promotion will be held later this year by the Chamber to raise enough funds, Bush said.

The decorations consist of strings of lights with aluminum foil garlands. There is a large star in the center and bells on either side. A secondary drape hangs underneath, although the Chamber is not planning on purchasing the draped section this year. This will be added later as enough money is obtained, he said.

The decorations will be secured from the L. C. Williams Co. of Houston, Tex. In the past the city has been decorated with large lighted candy-striped canes hanging from utility poles.

On Area Freeway Project

Traffic Change To Begin Monday

NEW TRAFFIC ROUTING. Effective Monday, all traffic on Routes 7 and 30 will be diverted over a new three-lane blacktop ramp and new Route 170 to permit the Great Lakes Construction Co. of Cleveland to continue with construction of the new Freeway. Mike Pierry, general superintendent, warned motorists that stop signs will be erected just east of the new bridge for both eastbound and westbound traffic on Route 170 to permit northbound traffic on Routes 7 and 30 to continue. The heavy dashed line shows the new pattern for northbound traffic on Routes 7 and 30. Southbound traffic will follow a similar pattern in the opposite direction. The old pavement between the new ramp and the junction of Route 170 and the Substation Rd. will be removed for the Freeway construction, Pierry said. The change originally was planned for Saturday but the Tri-State Asphalt Co., sub-contractor, suggested the delay to allow the blacktop to harden sufficiently to handle heavy tractor-trailer rigs.

Penalty Given 9 In Area By County Judge

A LaCroft motorist who failed to appear at a June 8 hearing and a Rogers driver who reportedly ignored four warnings on the condition of his auto were among nine district men and women penalized on traffic citations Thursday by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine.

James Lovett of 5th Ave., LaCroft, was fined $50 and costs for failure to halt for a stop sign and $25 and costs for failure to file for registration. He had been cited into the court June 8, but did not appear, and a bench warrant was issued by the judge.

Edward Shultz of Rogers was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail for operating an unsafe vehicle and $25 and costs and 90 days in jail for driving without a valid license.

Judge Arfman said Shultz had been warned four times about his auto and previously had been told not to drive the car unless he renewed his driver's license.

The judge suspended the 90-day term on condition Shultz sell the car.

Others fined were Virginia E. Thorne, 931 Dresden Ave., $20 and costs for lack of a valid driver's license and Hugh M. Thorne, 931 Dresden Ave., $20 and costs for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his car.

James Anderson of Fisher Ave., $15 and costs for failure to halt at an intersection; Frank Christy of Glenn St., Glenmoor, $25 and costs for driving left of center, with a 6-month suspension of driving privileges except for travel to work.

S. L. Dornon of East Palestine R. D. 1, $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way; D. G. Whitacre of New Waterford, $20 and costs for following another vehicle too closely, and George Schell of Hanoverton R. D. 1, $15 and costs for speeding.

Twenty offenders and 23 others attended a traffic movie and school at the court last night. Ohio Highway Patrolman R. D. Delagrange screened a movie and spoke at the first of the semi-monthly schools scheduled by Judge Arfman.

Official Will Air Results Of Study In Local Schools

Dwight Darling, a representative of the State Department of Education, will discuss a survey of city schools with the Board of Education at its meeting Monday night at 7:30.

Copies of the survey already are in the hands of board members.

The study was made several months ago after board members asked the late Supt. Ralph W. Betts to contact state education officials.

The request was made while the board was discussing informally the question of the fate of Central School. It has been deliberating on whether a new high school plant should be erected on a new site or whether a laboratory building should be constructed, with all academic classes being transferred to the main high school building.

The board also will consider the 1963 budget following the public hearing required by law.

Some appointments and resignations also will be submitted, Supt. Paul H. Blair said.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Bill Holmes McKelvey of Salineville R.D. 2 was headed east in a 1955 convertible when the auto went off the roadway about 2:15 a.m. four miles west of Route 30 in the Guilford Lake area.

He suffered lacerations of the scalp, abrasions of the body and possible fracture of the right ankle.

Officers, who said the investigation is not complete, reported heavy damage to the auto. The fence was on property owned by Ned Gruber of Lisbon R.D. 4.

Continuance Granted For Larceny Charges

A hearing for Paul A. Higgins on a charge of petty larceny today was continued until Tuesday in Municipal Court because of the absence of the arresting officer.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper asked the continuance with Atty. W. S. Foulks, who is representing Higgins, objecting. However, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff agreed to the postponement, explaining to Atty. Foulks that Higgins had been granted a continuance Wednesday after pleading innocent.

Higgins, who has no permanent address, was arrested Tuesday afternoon in Diamond Alley with seven pairs of women's hose concealed beneath his coat, police said.

On Area Freeway Project

Traffic Change To Begin Monday

NEW TRAFFIC ROUTING. Effective Monday, all traffic on Routes 7 and 30 will be diverted over a new three-lane blacktop ramp and new Route 170 to permit the Great Lakes Construction Co. of Cleveland to continue with construction of the new Freeway. Mike Pierry, general superintendent, warned motorists that stop signs will be erected just east of the new bridge for both eastbound and westbound traffic on Route 170 to permit northbound traffic on Routes 7 and 30 to continue. The heavy dashed line shows the new pattern for northbound traffic on Routes 7 and 30. Southbound traffic will follow a similar pattern in the opposite direction. The old pavement between the new ramp and the junction of Route 170 and the Substation Rd. will be removed for the Freeway construction, Pierry said. The change originally was planned for Saturday but the Tri-State Asphalt Co., sub-contractor, suggested the delay to allow the blacktop to harden sufficiently to handle heavy tractor-trailer rigs.

Penalty Given 9 In Area By County Judge

A LaCroft motorist who failed to appear at a June 8 hearing and a Rogers driver who reportedly ignored four warnings on the condition of his auto were among nine district men and women penalized on traffic citations Thursday by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine.

James Lovett of 5th Ave., LaCroft, was fined $50 and costs for failure to halt for a stop sign and $25 and costs for failure to file for registration. He had been cited into the court June 8, but did not appear, and a bench warrant was issued by the judge.

Edward Shultz of Rogers was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail for operating an unsafe vehicle and $25 and costs and 90 days in jail for driving without a valid license.

Judge Arfman said Shultz had been warned four times about his auto and previously had been told not to drive the car unless he renewed his driver's license.

The judge suspended the 90-day term on condition Shultz sell the car.

Others fined were Virginia E. Thorne, 931 Dresden Ave., $20 and costs for lack of a valid driver's license and Hugh M. Thorne, 931 Dresden Ave., $20 and costs for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his car.

James Anderson of Fisher Ave., $15 and costs for failure to halt at an intersection; Frank Christy of Glenn St., Glenmoor, $25 and costs for driving left of center, with a 6-month suspension of driving privileges except for travel to work.

S. L. Dornon of East Palestine R. D. 1, $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way; D. G. Whitacre of New Waterford, $20 and costs for following another vehicle too closely, and George Schell of Hanoverton R. D. 1, $15 and costs for speeding.

Twenty offenders and 23 others attended a traffic movie and school at the court last night. Ohio Highway Patrolman R. D. Delagrange screened a movie and spoke at the first of the semi-monthly schools scheduled by Judge Arfman.

Official Will Air Results Of Study In Local Schools

Dwight Darling, a representative of the State Department of Education, will discuss a survey of city schools with the Board of Education at its meeting Monday night at 7:30.

Copies of the survey already are in the hands of board members.

The study was made several months ago after board members asked the late Supt. Ralph W. Betts to contact state education officials.

The request was made while the board was discussing informally the question of the fate of Central School. It has been deliberating on whether a new high school plant should be erected on a new site or whether a laboratory building should be constructed, with all academic classes being transferred to the main high school building.

The board also will consider the 1963 budget following the public hearing required by law.

Some appointments and resignations also will be submitted, Supt. Paul H. Blair said.

He suffered lacerations of the scalp, abrasions of the body and possible fracture of the right ankle.

By HAL HUMPHREY

Van Heflin Tests TV Potential In Fall

Van Heflin is one of the few remaining Hollywood star-types who hasn't done a TV series, sold soap or cigarettes or told Garry Moore what his secret is.

Hal Humphrey

He comes close to doing a weekly TV series next fall as the narrator for CBS-TV's new "Great Adventure" historical dramas. It is in his contract, however, that Van doesn't have to appear live—just make with his voice.

"If the show folds, I can always say I wasn't in it," says Van, playfully.

"On the other hand, should it be a hit, I have the option of putting in an appearance occasionally, when the situation calls for it. After that, I can say I saved the series."

Except for three roles in the old "Playhouse 90" dramas, Van has done practically no TV, by his own choice. He says enough of his old movies are on TV to give him all the exposure needed on that medium.

"I'm still fighting, trying to hang on to being an actor instead of a salesman," states Van.

"I can't blame the others for doing TV commercials. Most of them get into a series, then are given an 'or else' ultimatum or convinced there is 'no harm' in selling soap. I've been lucky. I saved my dough."

-:-

ALONG WITH his dough, Van has managed to save considerable personal prestige by biding his time and avoiding most of the claptrap offers to come his way.

"I have no personality, which is what is required to last in most of these TV weekly shows. I'm an actor and have to rely on the character as written," says Van.

He admits, however, turning down the Eliot Ness role in "Untouchables" because he didn't see how enough material could be dredged up about Ness and crime in the '20s.

What Van didn't consider was the brash ingenuity of the producers, who were not above turning Ness into a Rover boy and parlaying his exploits right through the '30s.

For the moment, Van has been saved looking around for "the right TV series." He got the attorney's part in next season's Broadway production of "Libel," the play adapted from the Quentin Reynolds-Westbrook Pegler lawsuit chapter in Louis Nizer's best-seller, "My Life in Court."

-:-

IF IT BECOMES a hit, Van can bank some more money and prestige. If not, maybe he can find another TV series to narrate, or another Broadway play.

Van recently completed what Hollywood refers to now as a "cameo" part in George Stevens' new Biblical epic, "Greatest Story Ever Told."

"It's an invented character by the name of Bor Amand," explains Van, "but if you sneeze or yawn during the picture, you'll miss me. Still, I believe I have two more lines than John Wayne."

Like most actors today, Van no longer looks to the movies for sustenance, financial or spiritual. Too few are being made, and anyway Van believes Screen Actors Guild members sold themselves down the river in negotiations the past several years.

"An actor who used to get $100,000 for a picture is now asked to make a two-hour film for $25,000 because, he's told, 'it's for TV,'" says Van. "But that two-hour film will go into movie theaters later and the actor winds up with a 75 per cent cut in salary."

VAN IS REFERRING here to a recent announcement that MCA and NBC are going to make a two-hour feature for TV, as a sort of test run.

To some extent, this explains why many actors, who are offered as much as $75,000 to $100,000 to do a series of spot commercials, figure they have nothing to lose which hasn't already been taken away from them.

Still, it's good to know that a few old campaigners like Van Heflin are still "fighting to hang on" and are able to give the go-by to the siren song of Madison avenue and the Hollywood flesh peddlers.

White Member Of NAACP Quits

CHICAGO (AP)—A white member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has resigned because, he said, the group did not apologize for what he called hoodlum treatment of Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Stephen Love, a lawyer, wrote the Chicago NAACP office that he will make no more contributions to the organization and that he is resigning because the NAACP failed "to extend sincere and prompt apologies" to Daley.

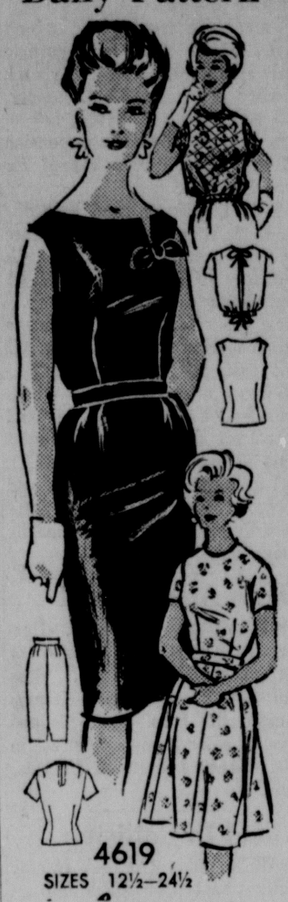

The mayor appeared at a rally in Grant Park last week, during the NAACP national convention.

While he talked, many white and Negro persons shouted from the audience and displayed placards against segregation. Other persons began to boo the mayor and he walked off the speaker's stand.

The NAACP contended it had no reason to apologize to Daley because the unruly persons in the audience were not NAACP members. Some top leaders of the group, however, expressed their personal feelings about the incident to Daley.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Evening Snacks Caused By Boredom

Studies reveal that a great deal of overeating is done during the evening hours, particularly by overweight individuals.

Ida Jean Kain

Many of you write that you can control your appetite during the day, but in the evening you seem powerless to keep away from food . . . and that you eat when you are not even hungry.

Doctors term this the night-eating syndrome. At any rate, the evening seems to contain the core of the overeating problem. Recognize that excessive eating is a substitute satisfaction. You are attempting to fulfill some unsatisfied need. The starting point is to try to understand what is missing in your life and to recognize that eating all evening is the effect, not the cause.

ALL RIGHT, so instead of saying to yourself..."I stuff all evening and I don't know why"—make an honest effort to find out why.

To pinpoint the cause, ask questions of yourself, probing questions. Does the evening eating pattern stem from boredom, feelings of being put-upon, or vague discontent? What is the basis of your discontent?

By doing some straight thinking and giving honest answers, the pattern gradually becomes more clear to you. If your really want to get at the cause, don't fall into the trap of rationalizing...answering in such a way as to excuse yourself.

Dr. Alfred George, M.D. in his enlightening book "Your Weight And Your Life" writes: "By far the most important factor in enabling overweight people to adhere to a diet is insight into why they overeat.

"Unless the psychological factors that stimulate the appetite are exposed, understood and eliminated, successful and permanent reduction in weight is not apt to be achieved."

Dr. George is referring to the overweight with superficial psychological factors, not to the obese neurotics, who because of their demanding attitude toward life, cannot tolerate denial of their wants.

If the factors are superficial and the evening eating stems from apathy, this indicates that you have no absorbing interests that excite you and energize you into action. Be assured that this happens to many people, and that it takes action to sir up interest.

Activity means doing something. If your family are grown, could you join a study group: a bowling team, or sign up for swimming?

ONE READER reported that she joined an amateur theatre group, and is having the time of her middle-age life. At first she only helped with the props.

People who develop interests which they can turn to at home, find this an excellent way to break the overeating habit. One dieter turned to sewing and made herself a new wardrobe in a size smaller dress.

It is important to get a new concept in your mind of what you want. Set a goal and aim toward it enthusiastically. Take charge of your life!

Lt. Gov. Brown's Car Kills Man Near Delaware

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — An accident that would have been impossible for any motorist to avoid—that's how the Highway Patrol appraises the fatality Thursday night in which Lt. Gov. John W. Brown's car killed a pedestrian.

Brown, fresh from presiding over the final session of the Ohio Senate, was headed home from Columbus toward Medina with his wife when the mishap occurred on Interstate 71 east of here.

According to the patrol, Robert L. Moore, 28, of Rt. 3, Marengo (Morrow County), walked into the path of the lieutenant governor's vehicle.

Moore's auto had stalled down the road and he headed for the interchange with U.S. 36 to seek help at a service station, officers said. Nearing the exit, he started across and was struck.

Patrolmen said Moore was wearing dark clothes and could hardly have been visible at freeway speeds until too late. They also noted that pedestrians are prohibited on the freeway. A driver, with car trouble should raise his hood, sit inside the auto and wait for assistance, they added.

NAACP May Picket Construction Projects

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples say they may start picketing federal construction projects Monday because of job discrimination by contractors.

The NAACP officials made the statement Thursday after walking out of a meeting of contractors and city, federal and labor union officials. The walk-out came after the contractors and labor union representatives asked for more time to step up Negro hiring.

By HAL HUMPHREY

Van Heflin Tests TV Potential In Fall

Van Heflin is one of the few remaining Hollywood star-types who hasn't done a TV series, sold soap or cigarettes or told Garry Moore what his secret is.

Hal Humphrey

He comes close to doing a weekly TV series next fall as the narrator for CBS-TV's new "Great Adventure" historical dramas. It is in his contract, however, that Van doesn't have to appear live—just make with his voice.

"If the show folds, I can always say I wasn't in it," says Van, playfully.

"On the other hand, should it be a hit, I have the option of putting in an appearance occasionally, when the situation calls for it. After that, I can say I saved the series."

Except for three roles in the old "Playhouse 90" dramas, Van has done practically no TV, by his own choice. He says enough of his old movies are on TV to give him all the exposure needed on that medium.

"I'm still fighting, trying to hang on to being an actor instead of a salesman," states Van.

"I can't blame the others for doing TV commercials. Most of them get into a series, then are given an 'or else' ultimatum or convinced there is 'no harm' in selling soap. I've been lucky. I saved my dough."

-:-

ALONG WITH his dough, Van has managed to save considerable personal prestige by biding his time and avoiding most of the claptrap offers to come his way.

"I have no personality, which is what is required to last in most of these TV weekly shows. I'm an actor and have to rely on the character as written," says Van.

He admits, however, turning down the Eliot Ness role in "Untouchables" because he didn't see how enough material could be dredged up about Ness and crime in the '20s.

What Van didn't consider was the brash ingenuity of the producers, who were not above turning Ness into a Rover boy and parlaying his exploits right through the '30s.

For the moment, Van has been saved looking around for "the right TV series." He got the attorney's part in next season's Broadway production of "Libel," the play adapted from the Quentin Reynolds-Westbrook Pegler lawsuit chapter in Louis Nizer's best-seller, "My Life in Court."

-:-

IF IT BECOMES a hit, Van can bank some more money and prestige. If not, maybe he can find another TV series to narrate, or another Broadway play.

Van recently completed what Hollywood refers to now as a "cameo" part in George Stevens' new Biblical epic, "Greatest Story Ever Told."

"It's an invented character by the name of Bor Amand," explains Van, "but if you sneeze or yawn during the picture, you'll miss me. Still, I believe I have two more lines than John Wayne."

Like most actors today, Van no longer looks to the movies for sustenance, financial or spiritual. Too few are being made, and anyway Van believes Screen Actors Guild members sold themselves down the river in negotiations the past several years.

"An actor who used to get $100,000 for a picture is now asked to make a two-hour film for $25,000 because, he's told, 'it's for TV,'" says Van. "But that two-hour film will go into movie theaters later and the actor winds up with a 75 per cent cut in salary."

VAN IS REFERRING here to a recent announcement that MCA and NBC are going to make a two-hour feature for TV, as a sort of test run.

To some extent, this explains why many actors, who are offered as much as $75,000 to $100,000 to do a series of spot commercials, figure they have nothing to lose which hasn't already been taken away from them.

Still, it's good to know that a few old campaigners like Van Heflin are still "fighting to hang on" and are able to give the go-by to the siren song of Madison avenue and the Hollywood flesh peddlers.

White Member Of NAACP Quits

CHICAGO (AP)—A white member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has resigned because, he said, the group did not apologize for what he called hoodlum treatment of Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Stephen Love, a lawyer, wrote the Chicago NAACP office that he will make no more contributions to the organization and that he is resigning because the NAACP failed "to extend sincere and prompt apologies" to Daley.

The mayor appeared at a rally in Grant Park last week, during the NAACP national convention.

While he talked, many white and Negro persons shouted from the audience and displayed placards against segregation. Other persons began to boo the mayor and he walked off the speaker's stand.

The NAACP contended it had no reason to apologize to Daley because the unruly persons in the audience were not NAACP members. Some top leaders of the group, however, expressed their personal feelings about the incident to Daley.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Evening Snacks Caused By Boredom

Studies reveal that a great deal of overeating is done during the evening hours, particularly by overweight individuals.

Ida Jean Kain

Many of you write that you can control your appetite during the day, but in the evening you seem powerless to keep away from food . . . and that you eat when you are not even hungry.

Doctors term this the night-eating syndrome. At any rate, the evening seems to contain the core of the overeating problem. Recognize that excessive eating is a substitute satisfaction. You are attempting to fulfill some unsatisfied need. The starting point is to try to understand what is missing in your life and to recognize that eating all evening is the effect, not the cause.

ALL RIGHT, so instead of saying to yourself..."I stuff all evening and I don't know why"—make an honest effort to find out why.

To pinpoint the cause, ask questions of yourself, probing questions. Does the evening eating pattern stem from boredom, feelings of being put-upon, or vague discontent? What is the basis of your discontent?

By doing some straight thinking and giving honest answers, the pattern gradually becomes more clear to you. If your really want to get at the cause, don't fall into the trap of rationalizing...answering in such a way as to excuse yourself.

Dr. Alfred George, M.D. in his enlightening book "Your Weight And Your Life" writes: "By far the most important factor in enabling overweight people to adhere to a diet is insight into why they overeat.

"Unless the psychological factors that stimulate the appetite are exposed, understood and eliminated, successful and permanent reduction in weight is not apt to be achieved."

Dr. George is referring to the overweight with superficial psychological factors, not to the obese neurotics, who because of their demanding attitude toward life, cannot tolerate denial of their wants.

If the factors are superficial and the evening eating stems from apathy, this indicates that you have no absorbing interests that excite you and energize you into action. Be assured that this happens to many people, and that it takes action to sir up interest.

Activity means doing something. If your family are grown, could you join a study group; a bowling team, or sign up for swimming?

ONE READER reported that she joined an amateur theatre group, and is having the time of her middle-age life. At first she only helped with the props.

People who develop interests which they can turn to at home, find this an excellent way to break the overeating habit. One dieter turned to sewing and made herself a new wardrobe in a size smaller dress.

It is important to get a new concept in your mind of what you want. Set a goal and aim toward it enthusiastically. Take charge of your life!

Western Beaver Unit To See Film Tuesday

Members of the Western Beaver County Area Development Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the McGeehan Agency in Midland.

A 28-minute film, "Give and Go," produced by TV station WQED and released through the Department of Internal Affairs, will be screened. It deals with three communities trying to solve mutual problems.

At the group's last meeting July 17, it selected its name and also decided to follow community development rather than industrial development. Each area was asked to meet and discuss community development and any problems that may be solved area-wise.

Citizens from Industry, Shippingport, Georgetown, Hookstown, Ohioville, Glasgow and Midland are invited to attend.

Lt. Gov. Brown's Car Kills Man Near Delaware

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — An accident that would have been impossible for any motorist to avoid—that's how the Highway Patrol appraises the fatality Thursday night in which Lt. Gov. John W. Brown's car killed a pedestrian.

Brown, fresh from presiding over the final session of the Ohio Senate, was headed home from Columbus toward Medina with his wife when the mishap occurred on Interstate 71 east of here.

According to the patrol, Robert L. Moore, 28, of Rt. 3, Marengo (Morrow County), walked into the path of the lieutenant governor's vehicle.

Moore's auto had stalled down the road and he headed for the interchange with U.S. 36 to seek help at a service station, officers said. Nearing the exit, he started across and was struck.

Patrolmen said Moore was wearing dark clothes and could hardly have been visible at freeway speeds until too late. They also noted that pedestrians are prohibited on the freeway. A driver, with car trouble should raise his hood, sit inside the auto and wait for assistance, they added.

NAACP May Picket Construction Projects

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Peoples say they may start picketing federal construction projects Monday because of job discrimination by contractors.

The NAACP officials made the statement Thursday after walking out of a meeting of contractors and city, federal and labor union officials. The walk-out came after the contractors and labor union representatives asked for more time to step up Negro hiring.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Since you seem to have a mature and sensible approach to funerals for pets I would like your advice on a problem that came up just this week.

My widowed mother lives alone in a large city. Her sole companion is my childhood pet, a rat terrier named Miss Florabelle. A few days ago I received a long letter from mother saying that Miss Florabelle is almost blind and she is so feeble she can scarcely walk. The vets says she could go any time.

Mother says she can't bear the thought of Miss Florabelle being hauled away by the garbage man. She wants me to bury her in my backyard. She closed with, "If you agree, son, I will be vastly relieved. I'll send Miss Florabelle's remains to you — air mail—in a suitcase."

I loved that dog, Ann, but the whole thing gives me the creeps. Please tell me what to do.—BEWILDERED.

Dear Bewildered: It is against the law to send dead dogs in the mail.

Tell your mother that when Miss Florabelle goes to her eternal rest, she should call the humane society. They will come and get her and see to it that she has the kind of burial an animal should have.

Confidence Respected

Dear Ann: Together with other clergymen, I personally appreciate the sound and often humorous advice you give to those who seek help. I appreciate, too, that you frequently refer your readers to professional counselors. This is what I am writing about.

Recently a woman wrote: "I have a delicate problem. I can't discuss it with our clergyman or doctor because we are well known in the community and if this story ever got out my husband would be furious."

Perhaps the writer had had an unfortunate experience with a counselor who was not discreet but every professional person of my acquaintance guards all confidences as a sacred trust.

Your readers should be told that ethical counselors may not be compelled, even by law, to relate confidences, unless the person who revealed those confidences gives his consent.

I do hope you will print this letter so your readers will feel completely comfortable when they seek professional counseling. — BATTLE CREEK PASTOR.

-:-

Dear Pastor: Many thanks for writing. I would like to add that many readers to whom I have suggested professional counseling have written back to express their deep appreciation.

House Is Art Gallery

Dear Ann: We built a lovely new house two years ago. I work full time at an office job and have no help at home.

When the house was brand new we had a big party and invited all our relatives and friends. My father-in-law asked if he could show his paintings at that time and offered to present the paintings to us as a gift. I said "fine," and handed him the house key so he could hang the pictures for the big event.

After two years he still has the key and our home has been turned into a gallery for anyone he wishes to drag through. He usually phones and announces, "The Thundering Herd is on the way"—then hangs up.

I'm fed up with all sorts of people tracking through our house. My husband says it would be rude and hurtful to tell the old gentleman to return the key and stop bringing people over.

What should we do about this? —MRS. WALKED ALL OVER.

Dear Mrs.: It is your husband's responsibility to tell his father the open house is over. He should encourage his father to take the paintings back since obviously the old gentleman is proud of his art and wishes to continue to show it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Construction Worker Helps Deliver Baby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester Wiggins went to Peru to do construction work for the Peace Corps. But he proved himself in a completely unrelated field—midwifery.

Wiggins, 66, a retired airline maintenance supervisor from San Bruno, Calif., went to Peru with only brief first aid training.

According to word received at Peace Corps headquarters here, Wiggins was giving a Peruvian woman and her husband a jeep ride when she began having birth pains.

A few minutes later, with help from Wiggins, the woman gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce boy.

Said the report:

"Wiggins performed well as a midwife, and both mother and young Jose Chester Domingo are doing well."

Midland Post Names Convention Delegate

A delegate to the Pennsylvania Legion convention was elected at a meeting of Midland American Legion Post 533 Thursday night at the Midland Masonic Lodge.

Willy Jones was named to attend the convention next Thursday at Pittsburgh.

Plans also were discussed for formation of an auxiliary unit and a Sons of Legion unit. Leon Anderson, commander, presided.

Next meeting is July 25.

Midland Mayor Reports

'Human Relations' Board Will Start Functions Soon

A new Human Relations Commission will be functioning in Midland soon, Mayor Eli Corak reported at a meeting of Borough Council Thursday night.

Mayor Corak said letters are being sent to both individuals and groups asking them to participate in the commission's work in order to obtain "a good cross-section of the community."

He said individuals are being asked to serve and organizations have been asked to assign a member for duty on the commission.

Due for completion in two weeks, the commission will be comprised of about 16 members, the mayor said.

Pete Adams of Midland submitted a report on his study of the new police radio system that the department must have in operation by Nov. 1, according to federal law.

He submitted a set of specifications and Council moved that bids be sought to be opened at the Aug. 8 meeting.

Adams reported the new mobile units will be completely transistorized and will operate on the same frequency as the Rochester and East Liverpool departments.

Plans call for the old mobile units, now in the cars, to be converted to a narrow band and placed in use by the fire department.

In other action, Council granted permission to the Midland fire department, represented by Tony Monaco, to conduct a parade on a date it selects.

In response to a letter from the Municipal Authority requesting a meeting with Council to discuss city parking and metering, Councilman Ray Presutti said such a meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the water works building.

Presutti also reported that the borough has placed 10 new litter baskets in various sites.

Congratulations were extended to Mayor Corak, the 4th of July Committee and all who worked on the celebration on the Holiday for doing a "fine job in making the day a success." Mayor Corak thanked Council for its $500 donation and co-operation.

All bills were ordered paid and the officers reports were accepted as submitted. Councilman Joseph Hibbard, vice - president, presided in the absence of William Vinovich, president.

Next regular meeting will be July 25.

Authorities said two other girls, ages 15 and 16, also admitted staying at Caldwell's home when they ran away from home. Police said statements by those two led to the Benwood girl.

Officers said they found photographs of nude girls in Caldwell's home. Caldwell is to be given a hearing next Tuesday afternoon.

Car Sales Up, Total Sales Down

Consumer Remains Hard For Experts To Figure

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The consumer remains as hard for the experts to figure as ever.

He buys when they think he should be saving his money for a rainy day and he refrains from going on a buying spree when they expect him to because of all the prosperity talk.

On the other hand the consumer has given the auto industry two straight years of good sales. According to the text books that's most unlikely.

On the other hand total retail sales, including car purchases, have dropped a bit for three straight months.

By the rules—which the consumer apparently hasn't bothered to memorize — retail sales should have gone on rising, because the total of personal incomes has been climbing to consecutive record levels.

With more money in their pockets many consumers have found something else to do with it than run down to the store or dealer.

This is almost as hard for the experts to explain as the consumer's calm continuance of spending during the 1960 recession when he should have been frightened and retrenching.

This unpredictable element is tough on the planners who would like to plot, and steer, a course for the economy.

Also upsetting to them just now is that some of the seasonal patterns aren't being followed in other sections of the economy.

The general outlook remains good, but some things are lagging when they should be advancing.

One is the factory hiring rate. The Labor Department says this edged up to 39 per 1,000 employes in May from 38 in April. This increase is smaller than seasonal. The lag came when many industries were increasing production and most business statistics were taking on a much healthier glow.

This helped drop the layoff rate to 14 per 1,000 employes from 16 in April. This was about in line with season trends. But many had hoped for a greater dip because of increased industrial activity.

Constitutional Action Set For Odd Fellows

The date for the final reading of the newly-revised constitution was announced by George Hood, noble grand, at a meeting of Pennova Odd Fellows Lodge 880 Thursday night at the lodge hall in East End.

The business will be transacted at the next meeting July 18, when changes also will be voted on. Hood urged all members to attend. The lunch committee will serve refreshments.

A new trustee for the 880 Club, Inc., also will be elected. Ray Neidengard's term expires. He now is serving as chairman.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Since you seem to have a mature and sensible approach to funerals for pets I would like your advice on a problem that came up just this week.

My widowed mother lives alone in a large city. Her sole companion is my childhood pet, a rat terrier named Miss Florabelle. A few days ago I received a long letter from mother saying that Miss Florabelle is almost blind and she is so feeble she can scarcely walk. The vets says she could go any time.

Mother says she can't bear the thought of Miss Florabelle being hauled away by the garbage man. She wants me to bury her in my backyard. She closed with, "If you agree, son, I will be vastly relieved. I'll send Miss Florabelle's remains to you — air mail—in a suitcase."

I loved that dog, Ann, but the whole thing gives me the creeps. Please tell me what to do.—BEWILDERED.

Dear Bewildered: It is against the law to send dead dogs in the mail.

Tell your mother that when Miss Florabelle goes to her eternal rest, she should call the humane society. They will come and get her and see to it that she has the kind of burial an animal should have.

Confidence Respected

Dear Ann: Together with other clergymen, I personally appreciate the sound and often humorous advice you give to those who seek help. I appreciate, too, that you frequently refer your readers to professional counselors. This is what I am writing about.

Recently a woman wrote: "I have a delicate problem. I can't discuss it with our clergyman or doctor because we are well known in the community and if this story ever got out my husband would be furious."

Perhaps the writer had had an unfortunate experience with a counselor who was not discreet but every professional person of my acquaintance guards all confidences as a sacred trust.

Your readers should be told that ethical counselors may not be compelled, even by law, to relate confidences, unless the person who revealed those confidences gives his consent.

I do hope you will print this letter so your readers will feel completely comfortable when they seek professional counseling. — BATTLE CREEK PASTOR.

-:-

Dear Pastor: Many thanks for writing. I would like to add that many readers to whom I have suggested professional counseling have written back to express their deep appreciation.

House Is Art Gallery

Dear Ann: We built a lovely new house two years ago. I work full time at an office job and have no help at home.

When the house was brand new we had a big party and invited all our relatives and friends. My father-in-law asked if he could show his paintings at that time and offered to present the paintings to us as a gift. I said "fine," and handed him the house key so he could hang the pictures for the big event.

After two years he still has the key and our home has been turned into a gallery for anyone he wishes to drag through. He usually phones and announces, "The Thundering Herd is on the way"—then hangs up.

I'm fed up with all sorts of people tracking through our house. My husband says it would be rude and hurtful to tell the old gentleman to return the key and stop bringing people over.

What should we do about this? —MRS. WALKED ALL OVER.

Dear Mrs.: It is your husband's responsibility to tell his father the open house is over. He should encourage his father to take the paintings back since obviously the old gentleman is proud of his art and wishes to continue to show it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Construction Worker Helps Deliver Baby

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester Wiggins went to Peru to do construction work for the Peace Corps. But he proved himself in a completely unrelated field—midwifery.

Wiggins, 66, a retired airline maintenance supervisor from San Bruno, Calif., went to Peru with only brief first aid training.

According to word received at Peace Corps headquarters here, Wiggins was giving a Peruvian woman and her husband a jeep ride when she began having birth pains.

A few minutes later, with help from Wiggins, the woman gave birth to a 6-pound, 10-ounce boy.

Said the report:

"Wiggins performed well as a midwife, and both mother and young Jose Chester Domingo are doing well."

Midland Post Names Convention Delegate

A delegate to the Pennsylvania Legion convention was elected at a meeting of Midland American Legion Post 533 Thursday night at the Midland Masonic Lodge.

Willy Jones was named to attend the convention next Thursday at Pittsburgh.

Plans also were discussed for formation of an auxiliary unit and a Sons of Legion unit. Leon Anderson, commander, presided.

Next meeting is July 25.

Midland Mayor Reports

'Human Relations' Board Will Start Functions Soon

A new Human Relations Commission will be functioning in Midland soon, Mayor Eli Corak reported at a meeting of Borough Council Thursday night.

Mayor Corak said letters are being sent to both individuals and groups asking them to participate in the commission's work in order to obtain "a good cross-section of the community."

He said individuals are being asked to serve and organizations have been asked to assign a member for duty on the commission.

Due for completion in two weeks, the commission will be comprised of about 16 members, the mayor said.

Pete Adams of Midland submitted a report on his study of the new police radio system that the department must have in operation by Nov. 1, according to federal law.

He submitted a set of specifications and Council moved that bids be sought to be opened at the Aug. 8 meeting.

Auams reported the new mobile units will be completely transistorized and will operate on the same frequency as the Rochester and East Liverpool departments.

Ford Notches 14th Win On 'Nothing Pitch'

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

By CHUCK CRONIN, substituting for Sports Editor Bob Duffy who is on vacation.

A golf pro too busy to play golf.

That's a capsule description of talkative, gruff-voiced Andy Petrick, in his 25th year as pro at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Andy's the perpetual man-in-motion in the golf season, scurrying here and there making arrangements for club tourneys, giving advice on the finer points of golf and working behind the scenes to keep things running smoothly.

ANDY PETRICK

Busy Andy gets in around only now and then with golf continuing to attract more players. Friday tournaments for the youngsters have added to his crowded summertime schedule, but he appears to enjoy seeing the teenagers get into the swing of things.

Petrick is a transplanted Pittsburgher whose golf tips have added to the ability of countless area residents, both at the club and at winter golf clinics. He's the local area's only pro licensed by the Professional Golf Association.

Born in East Pittsburgh, Andy moved to Homestead when 13 and became caddymaster at the Pittsburgh Country Club. He recalls he shagged balls for pro George McBride and shined clubs in the pro shop there.

Andy was pro in 1937 at Conneaut Lake Park, and the following year came to East Liverpool chiefly through the efforts of F. F. DeBolt, chairman of the greens committee at the Country Club.

He joined the PGA tour on the West Coast in 1941 and competed in the Bing Crosby tournament before heading east. Andy limits his actual playing now to occasional rounds with friends and refuses to play in hot weather. Eight years ago he collapsed from heat exhaustion.

An accomplished golfer, Andy carded a 67 at the club a few years ago, the five-underpar representing his best round. He's also a member of the sport's "hole-in-one" club, getting an ace at Alexandria, La.

Carrying on the Petrick name in golf are Andy Ashley, 10, and Steve, 7, two sons who "play well," according to their father. Mrs. Petrick has won the club putting championship five times.

It's not difficult to tell Andy's favorite pro by observing rows of pictures on the walls of his well-stocked pro shop. One of Sam Snead occupies the most prominent location, and there's an autographed photo of Ben Hogan. Of course, Andy follows the current stars, Palmer and Nicklaus included, and keeps an eye on Bob Putt, ex-Potter links standout.

Gruver Swatting Homers

Rick Gruver, former local Little Leaguer, has developed into a slugging demon for a Pony League team in LaMirada, Calif. The husky, 14-year-old pitcher smashed three home runs and a double in one game. In his next mound assignment, he fanned 10 batters. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Gruver of LaMirada, formerly of Etruria St.

Nonpareil To Hold Picnic

The Blue and White Nonpareil Club is hoping for a good turnout for its "bargain day" stag picnic Aug. 7 at 5 p.m. at Valley Park off Route 7 near Brookside. For only $3, members will receive their regular $2 memberships and a free buffet lunch and refreshments. Members of the Potter coaching staff will be on hand.

Pigskins To Fly Soon

Football is slated for an early arrival in the district this year with two All-Star attractions on the docket.

John Kuzio of New Cumberland will coach the North team for the Northern Panhandle Centennial game in Weirton Aug. 3. Chester, New Cumberland, Newell and Weirton are among schools to provide talent for Kuzio's Yanks.

The South will be represented by players from Paden City, New Martinsville, Moundsville, Wheeling and Cameron. Eugene Lamore of Linsly and Don Haskins of Cameron will plan the strategy.

Following a few days later will be the first annual Eastern Ohio All-Star game at Martins Ferry Aug. 9. There may be a few local players chosen for the North squad.

Keeps Yanks' Lead At Five; Tribe Nips A's

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those American Leaguers who insist Whitey Ford "doesn't have a thing," better keep an eye on the umpire, somebody's murdering 'em.

Ford, 34, left-handed ace of the New York Yankees pitching staff, threw nothing at the Los Angeles Angels Thursday night and came away with a 3-2 victory in 10 innings, his 10th in a row and No. 14 this season.

To many AL observers Ford has lost some of his stuff, and is using his head instead of his arm to outwit the batters. Head or arm, Ford had it again against the Angels, turning aside threat after threat as Los Angeles cracked 11 hits and scored only a pair of unearned runs.

Ford's 14th kept the Yankees five games ahead of the second-place Chicago White Sox, who turned a six-run third inning into a 6-3 victory over Detroit.

Third-place Boston edged Minnesota 2-0 behind Bill Monbouquette's three-hit pitching, Baltimore ended a Washington winning streak at seven games with a 7-4 triumph and Cleveland made the most of John Wyatt's wildness for an 8-6 decision over Kansas City.

The Yankees playing without Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, got a two-run homer from Hector Lopez in the sixth inning that tied the score, then won in the 10th when Joe Pepitone doubled and Elston Howard followed with a single. That tagged the defeat on Julio Navarro, 4-3. An error by Lopez and a passed ball by Howard allowed the Angels to score two unearned fourth inning runs against Ford, who needed Hal Reniff's last inning relief help.

The White Sox batted around in the third, chasing Hank Aguirre, 7-8. The key blows were a two-run double by Mike Hershberger and Jim Landis' two-run triple. Gary Peters, touched for single runs in the first and second, settled down until two were out in the ninth when Jim Brosnan had to get the final out. Peters is 6-5.

Monbouquette posted his first shutout of the season and brought his record to 12-6 be besting the Twins' Dick Stigman, 7-9. Stigman allowed only four hits in the eight innings he worked, but two were homers—by Bob Tillman and Ed Bressoud. The loss was the Twins eighth in nine games.

The Senators were leading 3-0 with Tom Cheney working on a two-hitter when the Washington starter had to leave with pains in his right elbow. The Orioles immediately went to work, rushing six runs in the seventh inning to put it away.

Wyatt, who's been troubled by wildness recently, walked Larry Brown to force in the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning, then wild pitched another across. The Indians had drawn even earlier in the inning on singles by Dick Howser and Al Luplow and Jose Azcue's pinch-hit double. Willie Kirkland homered for Cleveland while George Alusik, Ken Harrelson and Doc Edwards connected for the A's.

Mrs. Patterson Wins Ladies' Golf Event

Mrs. Robert Patterson scored 44-43-87 to win the ladies' blind bogey (draw) Wednesday at the Country Club.

Following in the first division were Mrs. J. R. McLaren, Mrs. J. E. Laughlin and Mrs. C. A. Gerace. Mrs. R. J. Kinsey won the putting, with 30.

Mrs. H. A. Smith carded 55 over nine holes in the second division. Mrs. R. Heddleston and Mrs. Arthur Doak followed. There was a tie for putting honors between Mrs. W. F. Porter and Mrs. H. A. Smith, with 19 each.

Fight Results

MIAMI, Fla.—Tony Mammarelli, 132, Pittsburgh, outpointed Bobby Marie, 130, Youngstown, Ohio, 8.

MICKEY MANTLE, holding the foot he injured in Baltimore June 5th, talks with manager Ralph Houk after Mantle took batting practice before the Yankee-Angels game at Los Angeles Thursday night. Mantle said earlier "the ankle sprain bothers me more than the broken bone in the instep." He expressed dim hope that he "might be able to play in a week." (UPI Telephoto)

Bright's Clips Dairymen, 9-6

George Bright's took the measure of Golden Star, 9-6, Thursday in the Pony League with Campbell winning an eight-hitter and chalking up 10 strikeouts.

Bright's collected nine hits off Natalina, and enjoyed big innings in the third and fourth. Moore batted in three runs for the winners on three doubles. Stewart had two hits, one a homer.

Myler drove in a pair of runs for Golden Star and had two hits in four trips, including a home run. Gerace and Natalina also had two hits each.

Natalina fanned six but was nipped for eight runs in only three and one-third innings. Myler and Hasala came on in relief.

Foe Blasted By Woodbine In 21-5 Rout

Oncoming Woodbine Laundry shifted its attack into high gear to explode for 17 hits and roll to a 21-5 victory over Litten's in the Pony League Thursday at Dopler Field.

The laundry entry sprayed base hits all over the lot to post its most decisive win of the year and to take sole possession of second place in the standings.

Brewer and Arrington belted two homers each, while Caruso and Seibert got doubles.

Tice went the distance for Woodbine, allowing seven hits. Littens used four pitchers in an attempt to stem the tide, and Beadnell got the loss.

Ford Notches 14th Win On 'Nothing Pitch'

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

By CHUCK CRONIN, substituting for Sports Editor Bob Duffy who is on vacation.

A golf pro too busy to play golf.

That's a capsule description of talkative, gruff-voiced Andy Petrick, in his 25th year as pro at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Andy's the perpetual man-in-motion in the golf season, scurrying here and there making arrangements for club tourneys, giving advice on the finer points of golf and working behind the scenes to keep things running smoothly.

ANDY PETRICK

Busy Andy gets in around only now and then with golf continuing to attract more players. Friday tournaments for the youngsters have added to his crowded summertime schedule, but he appears to enjoy seeing the teenagers get into the swing of things.

Petrick is a transplanted Pittsburgher whose golf tips have added to the ability of countless area residents, both at the club and at winter golf clinics. He's the local area's only pro licensed by the Professional Golf Association.

Born in East Pittsburgh, Andy moved to Homestead when 13 and became caddymaster at the Pittsburgh Country Club. He recalls he shagged balls for pro George McBride and shined clubs in the pro shop there.

Andy was pro in 1937 at Conneaut Lake Park, and the following year came to East Liverpool chiefly through the efforts of F. F. DeBolt, chairman of the greens committee at the Country Club.

He joined the PGA tour on the West Coast in 1941 and competed in the Bing Crosby tournament before heading east. Andy limits his actual playing now to occasional rounds with friends and refuses to play in hot weather. Eight years ago he collapsed from heat exhaustion.

An accomplished golfer, Andy carded a 67 at the club a few years ago, the five-underpar representing his best round. He's also a member of the sport's "hole-in-one" club, getting an ace at Alexandria, La.

Carrying on the Petrick name in golf are Andy Ashley, 10, and Steve, 7, two sons who "play well," according to their father. Mrs. Petrick has won the club putting championship five times.

It's not difficult to tell Andy's favorite pro by observing rows of pictures on the walls of his well-stocked pro shop. One of Sam Snead occupies the most prominent location, and there's an autographed photo of Ben Hogan. Of course, Andy follows the current stars, Palmer and Nicklaus included, and keeps an eye on Bob Putt, ex-Potter links standout.

Gruver Swatting Homers

Rick Gruver, former local Little Leaguer, has developed into a slugging demon for a Pony League team in LaMirada, Calif. The husky, 14-year-old pitcher smashed three home runs and a double in one game. In his next mound assignment, he fanned 10 batters. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Gruver of LaMirada, formerly of Etruria St.

Nonpareil To Hold Picnic

The Blue and White Nonpareil Club is hoping for a good turnout for its "bargain day" stag picnic Aug. 7 at 5 p.m. at Valley Park off Route 7 near Brookside. For only $3, members will receive their regular $2 memberships and a free buffet lunch and refreshments. Members of the Potter coaching staff will be on hand.

Pigskins To Fly Soon

Football is slated for an early arrival in the district this year with two All-Star attractions on the docket.

John Kuzio of New Cumberland will coach the North team for the Northern Panhandle Centennial game in Weirton Aug. 3. Chester, New Cumberland, Newell and Weirton are among schools to provide talent for Kuzio's Yanks.

The South will be represented by players from Paden City, New Martinsville, Moundsville, Wheeling and Cameron. Eugene Lamore of Linsly and Don Haskins of Cameron will plan the strategy.

Following a few days later will be the first annual Eastern Ohio All-Star game at Martins Ferry Aug. 9. There may be a few local players chosen for the North squad.

BASEBALL HEROES

PITCHING — Billy Monbouquette, Red Sox, posted first shutout of season, limiting Minnesota to three hits in 2-0 triumph, striking out eight, walking one and allowing only one runner to reach second base.

BATTING — Willie McCovey, Giants, hit 24th homer, in eighth inning, for run that proved decisive in 4-3 triumph over Philadelphia.

Keeps Yanks' Lead At Five; Tribe Nips A's

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those American Leaguers who insist Whitey Ford "doesn't have a thing," better keep an eye on the umpire, somebody's murdering 'em.

Ford, 34, left-handed ace of the New York Yankees pitching staff, threw nothing at the Los Angeles Angels Thursday night and came away with a 3-2 victory in 10 innings, his 10th in a row and No. 14 this season.

To many AL observers Ford has lost some of his stuff, and is using his head instead of his arm to outwit the batters. Head or arm, Ford had it again against the Angels, turning aside threat after threat as Los Angeles cracked 11 hits and scored only a pair of unearned runs.

Ford's 14th kept the Yankees five games ahead of the second-place Chicago White Sox, who turned a six-run third inning into a 6-3 victory over Detroit.

Third-place Boston edged Minnesota 2-0 behind Bill Monbouquette's three-hit pitching. Baltimore ended a Washington winning streak at seven games with a 7-4 triumph and Cleveland made the most of John Wyatt's wildness for an 8-6 decision over Kansas City.

The Yankees playing without Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, got a two-run homer from Hector Lopez in the sixth inning that tied the score, then won in the 10th when Joe Pepitone doubled and Elston Howard followed with a single. That tagged the defeat on Julio Navarro, 4-3. An error by Lopez and a passed ball by Howard allowed the Angels to score two unearned fourth inning runs against Ford, who needed Hal Reniff's last inning relief help.

The White Sox batted around in the third, chasing Hank Aguirre, 7-8. The key blows were a two-run double by Mike Hershberger and Jim Landis' two-run triple. Gary Peters, touched for single runs in the first and second, settled down until two were out in the ninth when Jim Brosnan had to get the final out. Peters is 6-5.

Monbouquette posted his first shutout of the season and brought his record to 12-6 be besting the Twins' Dick Stigman, 7-9. Stigman allowed only four hits in the eight innings he worked, but two were homers—by Bob Tillman and Ed Bressoud. The loss was the Twins eighth in nine games.

The Senators were leading 3-0 with Tom Cheney working on a two-hitter when the Washington starter had to leave with pains in his right elbow. The Orioles immediately went to work, rushing six runs in the seventh inning to put it away.

Wyatt, who's been troubled by wildness recently, walked Larry Brown to force in the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning, then wild pitched another across. The Indians had drawn even earlier in the inning on singles by Dick Howser and Al Luplow and Jose Azcue's pinch-hit double. Willie Kirkland homered for Cleveland while George Alusik, Ken Harrelson and Doc Edwards connected for the A's.

Mrs. Patterson Wins Ladies' Golf Event

Mrs. Robert Patterson scored 44-43-87 to win the ladies' blind bogey (draw) Wednesday at the Country Club.

Following in the first division were Mrs. J. R. McLaren, Mrs. J. E. Laughlin and Mrs. C. A. Gerace. Mrs. R. J. Kinsey won the putting, with 30.

Mrs. H. A. Smith carded 55 over nine holes in the second division. Mrs. R. Heddleston and Mrs. Arthur Doak followed. There was a tie for putting honors between Mrs. W. F. Porter and Mrs. H. A Smith, with 19 each.

Fight Results

MIAMI, Fla.—Tony Mammarelli, 132, Pittsburgh, outpointed Bobby Marie, 130, Youngstown, Ohio, 8.

MICKEY MANTLE, holding the foot he injured in Baltimore June 5th, talks with manager Ralph Houk after Mantle took batting practice before the Yankee-Angels game at Los Angeles Thursday night. Mantle said earlier "the ankle sprain bothers me more than the broken bone in the instep." He expressed dim hope that he "might be able to play in a week." (UPI Telephoto)

Bright's Clips Dairymen, 9-6

George Bright's took the measure of Golden Star, 9-6, Thursday in the Pony League with Campbell winning an eight-hitter and chalking up 10 strikeouts.

Bright's collected nine hits off Natalina, and enjoyed big innings in the third and fourth. Moore batted in three runs for the winners on three doubles. Stewart had two hits, one a homer.

Myler drove in a pair of runs for Golden Star and had two hits in four trips, including a home run. Gerace and Natalina also had two hits each.

Natalina fanned six but was nipped for eight runs in only three and one-third innings. Myler and Hasala came on in relief.

Foe Blasted By Woodbine In 21-5 Rout

Oncoming Woodbine Laundry shifted its attack into high gear to explode for 17 hits and roll to a 21-5 victory over Litten's in the Pony League Thursday at Dopler Field.

The laundry entry sprayed base hits all over the lot to post its most decisive win of the year and to take sole possession of second place in the standings.

Brewer and Arrington belted two homers each, while Caruso and Seibert got doubles.

Tice went the distance for Woodbine, allowing seven hits. Littens used four pitchers in an attempt to stem the tide, and Beadnell got the loss.

Rodgers' 135 Leads British Open By One

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Tell those guys to look out."

That was Arnold Palmer speaking from a whopping 12 strokes behind leader Phil Rodgers as he faced the final 36 holes of the British Open Golf Championship he has won the last two years.

The Latrobe, Pa., strongboy and famous stretch-runner said it with a grin but somehow he seemed to mean it. He even arranged an early morning date at the pro shop to tinker with his clubs again, especially his troublesome driver, hoping to hammer out some kind of miracle.

Palmer's charging finishes are famous but back at 147 this time he didn't seem to be fazing the 25-year-old Rodgers, an ex-Marine from La Jolla, Calif., who led the parade into the double round finish with a 36-hole total of 135. Rodgers, who shot a brilliant 68 Thursday to go with his first round of 67, said:

"I'm a front runner myself. I'm not one of those who like to be tucked in behind and then charge away. I've won all my tournaments by being ahead and staying there."

If Rodgers can't stand the pace, it appeared that the men to watch were Peter Thomson of Australia, such a steady British Open campaigner that he's won it four times; and the U.S. Masters champion and heir to Palmer's golf throne, Jack Nicklaus.

Thomson began the final 36 just one stroke behind Rodgers after a 69 Thursday, while Nicklaus was three shots back of the pace at 138, after a great 67.

At 139 was Kel Nagle of Australia, the 1960 champion who had a second round of 70. Bob Charles of New Zealand was alone at 140 and the rest of the field of 47 survivors of the first two rounds was strung out up to 149.

ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Leading scorers after 36 holes of the 72-hole British Open Golf Championship Thursday:

Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif. 67-68—135

Peter Thomson, Australia 67-69—136

Owls Break Losing Chain With 1-0 Win

The Owls Club snapped a 14-game losing streak, and the Chester City League All-Stars scored a 1-0 victory over their Steubenville counterparts Thursday.

Landfriend pitched a two-hitter as last place Owls Club trimmed Chester, 9-1. Jerry Stovall had two hits and Yanni and Allen hit homers.

The league All-Stars tallied once in the fourth on Dawson's home run and made it stand up for the victory, despite a hair-raising infield play in the sixth inning.

Steubenville had loaded the bases, with one out, when Young hit a sharp grounder to Thayer. Thayer stepped on third, then threw low into the dirt to first base. Neat fielding by big Bob Boston prevented a score.

Dawson had three hits, and Thayer a pair for the locals, while L. Williams had a double for Steubenville.

Chester's All-Stars will play in Steubenville on July 22. Today's games pit Local 647 against East End at 6:05, and Hancock against Amvits at 7:30.

Dodgers Win, Hold 4-Game Lead

McCovey Poles His 24th As Giants Edge Phils, 4-3

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I don't know where we'd be without him."

That's Al Dark, manager of the San Francisco Giants, speaking of Willie McCovey.

Where the Giants are—with McCovey—is in second place in the National League, and the tall slugger with the quick wrists and awesome power definitely has been their key man.

The left-handed belter who operates at first base or the outfield for the defending league champions again demonstrated his value Thursday night at Philadelphia.

He singled in the sixth inning, stretching his hitting streak to 15 games, then rapped his 24th homer in the eighth for the run that stood up as the clincher in a 4-3 victory.

The Los Angeles Dodgers stayed four games ahead of the pack capitalizing on a pair of errors and dealing the New York Mets their 12th straight loss, 4-3. It was the fourth victory in a row for the high-flying Dodgers, and the ninth in their last 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NL—Don Cardwell pitched a two-hitter in Pittsburgh's 3-0 shutout of the Houston Colts; Chicago and Cincinnati split a twi-nighter, the Cubs erupting for seven runs in the 11th inning of the opener for a 7-0 romp and the Reds taking the second game 7-3 with a four-run eighth; and St. Louis also divided with Milwaukee the Cards winning 6-3 before dropping a 5-3 decision to the Braves.

The Giants had four men put out on the bases in a display of careless running and had to withstand a big threat in the ninth inning. Juan Marichal posted his 14th victory in 18 decisions with relief from Bob Bolin. Rookie Ray Culp, 10-7, was the loser.

The two Met errors combined with three Dodger hits pushed the league leaders into a 4-2 lead at New York — and nailed Roger Craig with his 12th defeat in a row. Jesse Gonder, the catcher acquired by the Mets last week from Cincinnati, drove in all the New York runs with a pair of homers off Don Drysdale.

Drysdale went over the .550 mark at 11-10 with reliever Ron Perranoski's help. Craig, 2-14, last won on April 29—against the Dodgers.

Cardwell handcuffed the Colts on two singles, both by rookie Jim Wynn, in winning his third straight for a 6-9 mark. The Pirates nicked Dick Farrell for a run in the fourth on singles by Dick Schofield and Bill Virdon, plus Roberto Clemente's ground out, then got two unearned runs in the eighth off Don Nottetbart.

Southpaw Dick Ellsworth, 12-6, went the distance for the Cubs in the overtime opener at Cincinnati. Andre Rogers started a 11th inning explosion with a single off loser Al Worthington and batted in the seventh and final run with a double off Dom Zanni. Ken Hubbs' cracked the scoreless tie with a two-run double and Don Landrum tripled in two runs.

The Reds' four-run eighth inning in the second game gave Jim Maloney his 14th pitching victory. Eddie Kasko singled home the tie-breaker in the eighth and Pete Rose nailed it down with a two-run double.

Dick Groat doubled in two runs and Bill White followed with a homer as the Cardinals scored five times in the seventh inning for their victory over Milwaukee. The Braves retaliated in the second game, beating ex-teammate Lew Burdette, with Lee Maye's homer in the seventh the deciding blow.

Fullmer's Sore Foot Postpones Bout With Tiger

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP)—Gene Fullmer's sore foot caused another postponement in his scheduled fight with middleweight champion Dick Tiger in Nigeria and Joey Giardello, who also wants a crack at the Tiger, said Gene's afraid.

"He doesn't like to go too far from home," Giardello said at a news conference in New York Thursday.

He said Gene is afraid to go to Africa "because he knows Tiger is a little too tough for him."

Gene boils underneath at jibes like that, especially from Giardello, but he got hold of himself and said:

"I don't care to comment on it because I couldn't say anything nice. And if I can't do that, I don't want to say anything at all."

This was the second postponement. Fullmer and Tiger were first scheduled to fight at Ibadan, Nigeria, this Saturday. But Fullmer hurt his foot during a workout and postponed it until July 27.

But the foot healed slower than expected and Thursday his manager, Marv Jenson, announced, after talking on the phone to British promoter Jack Solomons, that the fight would be Aug. 10.

Jockey Howard Grant won four stakes races at the Atlantic City, N. J., track during 1962. Steve Brooks led the riders with 48 victories.

Middle linebacker Sam Huff is preparing for his eighth season with the New York Giants. He has never missed a minute of defensive play for the Giants.

Southern Conference championships in baseball, basketball and cross-country were won by West Virginia teams in the last year.

Rodgers' 135 Leads British Open By One

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Tell those guys to look out."

That was Arnold Palmer speaking from a whopping 12 strokes behind leader Phil Rodgers as he faced the final 36 holes of the British Open Golf Championship he has won the last two years.

The Latrobe, Pa., strongboy and famous stretch-runner said it with a grin but somehow he seemed to mean it. He even arranged an early morning date at the pro shop to tinker with his clubs again, especially his troublesome driver, hoping to hammer out some kind of miracle.

Palmer's charging finishes are famous but back at 147 this time he didn't seem to be fazing the 25-year-old Rodgers, an ex-Marine from La Jolla, Calif., who led the parade into the double round finish with a 36-hole total of 135. Rodgers, who shot a brilliant 68 Thursday to go with his first round of 67, said:

"I'm a front runner myself. I'm not one of those who like to be tucked in behind and then charge away. I've won all my tournaments by being ahead and staying there."

If Rodgers can't stand the pace, it appeared that the men to watch were Peter Thomson of Australia, such a steady British Open campaigner that he's won it four times; and the U.S. Masters champion and heir to Palmer's golf throne, Jack Nicklaus.

Thomson began the final 36 just one stroke behind Rodgers after a 69 Thursday, while Nicklaus was three shots back of the pace at 138, after a great 67.

At 139 was Kel Nagle of Australia, the 1960 champion who had a second round of 70. Bob Charles of New Zealand was alone at 140 and the rest of the field of 47 survivors of the first two rounds was strung out up to 149.

ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Leading scorers after 36 holes of the 72-hole British Open Golf Championship Thursday:

Phil Rodgers, La Jolla, Calif. 67-68—135

Peter Thomson, Australia 67-69—136

Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio 71-67—138

Kel Nagle, Australia 69-70—139

Bob Charles, New Zealand 68-72—140

McCovey Poles His 24th As Giants Edge Phils, 4-3

By JIM HACKLEMAN

The left-handed belter who operates at first base or the outfield for the defending league champions again demonstrated his value Thursday night at Philadelphia.

He singled in the sixth inning, stretching his hitting streak to 15 games, then rapped his 24th homer in the eighth for the run that stood up as the clincher in a 4-3 victory.

The Los Angeles Dodgers stayed four games ahead of the pack capitalizing on a pair of errors and dealing the New York Mets their 12th straight loss, 4-3. It was the fourth victory in a row for the high-flying Dodgers, and the ninth in their last 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NL—Don Cardwell pitched a two-hitter in Pittsburgh's 3-0 shutout of the Houston Colts; Chicago and Cincinnati split a twi-nighter, the Cubs erupting for seven runs in the 11th inning of the opener for a 7-0 romp and the Reds taking the second game 7-3 with a four-run eighth; and St. Louis also divided with Milwaukee the Cards winning 6-3 before dropping a 5-3 decision to the Braves.

The Giants had four men put out on the bases in a display of careless running and had to withstand a big threat in the ninth inning. Juan Marichal posted his 14th victory in 18 decisions with relief from Bob Bolin. Rookie Ray Culp, 10-7, was the loser.

The two Met errors combined with three Dodger hits pushed the league leaders into a 4-2 lead at New York — and nailed Roger Craig with his 12th defeat in a row. Jesse Gonder, the catcher acquired by the Mets last week from Cincinnati, drove in all the New York runs with a pair of homers off Don Drysdale.

Drysdale went over the .550 mark at 11-10 with reliever Ron Perranoski's help. Craig, 2-14, last won on April 29—against the Dodgers.

Cardwell handcuffed the Colts on two singles, both by rookie Jim Wynn, in winning his third straight for a 6-9 mark. The Pirates nicked Dick Farrell for a run in the fourth on singles by Dick Schofield and Bill Virdon, plus Roberto Clemente's ground out, then got two unearned runs in the eighth off Don Nottebart.

Southpaw Dick Ellsworth, 12-6, went the distance for the Cubs in the overtime opener at Cincinnati. Andre Rogers started a 11th inning explosion with a single off loser Al Worthington and batted in the seventh and final run with a double off Dom Zanni. Ken Hubbs' cracked the scoreless tie with a two-run double and Don Landrum tripled in two runs.

The Reds' four-run eighth inning in the second game gave Jim Maloney his 14th pitching victory. Eddie Kasko singled home the tiebreaker in the eighth and Pete Rose nailed it down with a two-run double.

Dick Groat doubled in two runs and Bill White followed with a homer as the Cardinals scored five times in the seventh inning for their victory over Milwaukee. The Braves retaliated in the second game, beating ex-teammate Lew Burdette, with Lee Maye's homer in the seventh the deciding blow.

Fullmer's Sore Foot Postpones Bout With Tiger

WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP)—Gene Fullmer's sore foot caused another postponement in his scheduled fight with middleweight champion Dick Tiger in Nigeria and Joey Giardello, who also wants a crack at the Tiger, said Gene's afraid.

"He doesn't like to go too far from home," Giardello said at a news conference in New York Thursday.

He said Gene is afraid to go to Africa "because he knows Tiger is a little too tough for him."

Gene boils underneath at jibes like that, especially from Giardello, but he got hold of himself and said:

"I don't care to comment on it because I couldn't say anything nice. And if I can't do that, I don't want to say anything at all."

This was the second postponement. Fullmer and Tiger were first scheduled to fight at Ibadan, Nigeria, this Saturday. But Fullmer hurt his foot during a workout and postponed it until July 27.

But the foot healed slower than expected and Thursday his manager, Marv Jenson, announced, after talking on the phone to British promoter Jack Solomons, that the fight would be Aug. 10.

Jockey Howard Grant won four stakes races at the Atlantic City, N. J., track during 1962. Steve Brooks led the riders with 48 victories.

Middle linebacker Sam Huff is preparing for his eighth season with the New York Giants. He has never missed a minute of defensive play for the Giants.

Southern Conference championships in baseball, basketball and cross-country were won by West Virginia teams in the last year.

Owls Break Losing Chain With 1-0 Win

The Owls Club snapped a 14-game losing streak, and the Chester City League All-Stars scored a 1-0 victory over their Steubenville counterparts Thursday.

Landfriend pitched a two-hitter as last place Owls Club trimmed Chester, 9-1. Jerry Stovall had two hits and Yanni and Allen hit homers.

The league All-Stars tallied once in the fourth on Dawson's home run and made it stand up for the victory, despite a hair-raising infield play in the sixth inning.

Steubenville had loaded the bases, with one out, when Young hit a sharp grounder to Thayer. Thayer stepped on third, then threw low into the dirt to first base. Neat fielding by big Bob Boston prevented a score.

Dawson had three hits, and Thayer a pair for the locals, while L. Williams had a double for Steubenville.

Chester's All-Stars will play in Steubenville on July 22. Today's games pit Local 647 against East End at 6:05, and Hancock against Amvits at 7:30.

Blom, Carmichael In Big Match

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen oddly assorted survivors of a starting field of 233 went into the third round of match play today at Elyria Country Club in quest of Ohio's 57th Amateur Golf Championship.

Still on hand after beating back two challengers in Thursday's opening man-to-man combat were three former champions, several 19-year-old students, a 44-year-old architect, a dentist, a basketball coach and dealers in such items as industrial gloves, steel, insurance, gears, oil and business forms.

Today's big match pitted 35-year-old Tony Blom of Cincinnati, the 1959 and 1962 winner, against 44-year-old Dan Carmichael of Columbus, a World War II Naval air ace and champion in 1960.

Another eye-catching tilt was a player - coach battle between Frank Truitt, 38 - year - old Ohio State assistant basketball mentor, and medalist Jim Brown of Martins Ferry, 19-year-old member of the Buckeye cage squad.

Carmichael was the big birdie shooter Thursday as he carved a 7 and 5 verdict over Jerry Ravenaugh of Dayton. In the second round Carmichael had four birdies and was four under par for the route.

Blom had only one birdie in each round as he triumphed over Bob Seyler of Mansfield and long-hitting George Frankenfeld of Cincinnati. The latter three - putted three greens as Blom won by 3 and 2.

Walter Stahl of Cleveland, the 1961 champion, stayed in with a 1-70 victory over Dr. Harry Duccilli of Wyoming, the 1959 runnerup. Duccilli lost it with a bogey on the final hole.

A flock of talent failed to get by the opening round. Among the defeated group were Tom Weiskopf of Bedford, winner of the last two state public links crowns; Bobby Littler of Athens, last year's runnerup; Ed Preisler of Cleveland, the 1946 champion; Alex Antonio of Hubbard, state high school king in 1962 and 1963; Jack Hesler of Columbus, 1952 Indiana champion; Don Albert of Columbus, 1960 runnerup and former Big Ten champion, and Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, the 1962 pre-seniors winner.

Jim Logue, 22-year-old Springfielder just back from an Air Force encampment, eliminated two of the big ones, Weiskopf and Hesler.

Other third-round pairings include:

Pandel Savic of Columbus, vs. 19-year-old George McManis of Cincinnati; Carl Unis of Cleveland vs. Bill Petersen of Cleveland; 33-year-old Bob Hoag of Columbus vs 19-year-old Bob Bourne of Oberlin; Vince Cirigliano, Cleveland oil salesman, vs. Paul Minnich of Elyria, four-time champion of the host club; and Stahl vs. Dr. Mel Woelfing of Toledo, the National Caddy Champion of 1950.

Survivors of today's two rounds meet in Saturday's 36-hole semi-finals, and Sunday's championship battle also is over the long route.

Central Wins On Forfeit

The rules book decided a tight battle in the Colt League Thursday in which Central Service won a forfeit game from the Lawyers in one of the weirdest endings in the young league's history.

Unable to field a full team for the eighth inning, because one player was ejected in a rhubarb over a low pitch, the Lawyers were required to forfeit the game although the score was tied at 3-3.

According to league officials, the forfeit provided Central Service with a 9-0 triumph and moved the winners all the way from fifth to second place in the standings.

Burkhart, left fielder for the Lawyers, was ejected by the umpire in the last half of the seventh in a rhubarb over a pitch, and during a rally in which the Lawyers tallied one run to tie at 3-3.

Central had been limited to three hits by Walker, with Dalessio getting a triple and Chetwynd a double. Scott had a double for the Lawyers, while Blythe had two hits.

Walker fanned seven, and Locke three.

Local Unions Get Bids For Data On Minority Groups

Local unions of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters have been asked to co-operate with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity by completing questionnaires concerning minority groups in each local.

In a letter to E. L. Wheatley, international president, W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor and vice chairman of the committee, said the purpose of the questionnaire is to determine the composition of minority groups in local unions throughout the country.

The committee also wants to obtain information concerning the activity of minority groups seeking union membership and the reaction of local unions to the applications.

Wheatley said the questionnaires have been forwarded to affiliated locals and delegates at the annual convention opening Monday will be appraised of the program.

The international president said neither the IBOP constitution nor any known contracts contain a discrimination clause. There never has been any racial, nationality or creed ban in the constitution, Wheatley declared.

Blom, Carmichael In Big Match

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Sixteen oddly assorted survivors of a starting field of 233 went into the third round of match play today at Elyria Country Club in quest of Ohio's 57th Amateur Golf Championship.

Still on hand after beating back two challengers in Thursday's opening man-to-man combat were three former champions, several 19-year-old students, a 44-year-old architect, a dentist, a basketball coach and dealers in such items as industrial gloves, steel, insurance, gears, oil and business forms.

Today's big match pitted 35-year-old Tony Blom of Cincinnati, the 1959 and 1962 winner, against 44-year-old Dan Carmichael of Columbus, a World War II Naval air ace and champion in 1960.

Another eye-catching tilt was a player - coach battle between Frank Truitt, 38 - year - old Ohio State assistant basketball mentor, and medalist Jim Brown of Martins Ferry, 19-year-old member of the Buckeye cage squad.

Carmichael was the big birdie shooter Thursday as he carved a 7 and 5 verdict over Jerry Ravenaugh of Dayton. In the second round Carmichael had four birdies and was four under par for the route.

Blom had only one birdie in each round as he triumphed over Bob Seyler of Mansfield and long-hitting George Frankenfeld of Cincinnati. The latter three - putted three greens as Blom won by 3 and 2.

Walter Stahl of Cleveland, the 1961 champion, stayed in with a 1-70 victory over Dr. Harry Duccilli of Wyoming, the 1959 runnerup. Duccilli lost it with a bogey on the final hole.

A flock of talent failed to get by the opening round. Among the defeated group were Tom Weiskopf of Bedford, winner of the last two state public links crowns; Bobby Littler of Athens, last year's runnerup; Ed Preisler of Cleveland, the 1946 champion; Alex Antonio of Hubbard, state high school king in 1962 and 1963; Jack Hesler of Columbus, 1952 Indiana champion; Don Albert of Columbus, 1960 runnerup and former Big Ten champion, and Steve Pipoly of Youngstown, the 1962 pre-seniors winner.

Jim Logue, 22-year-old Springfielder just back from an Air Force encampment, eliminated two of the big ones, Weiskopf and Hesler.

Other third-round pairings include:

Pandel Savic of Columbus, vs. 19-year-old George McManis of Cincinnati; Carl Unis of Cleveland vs. Bill Petersen of Cleveland; 33-year-old Bob Hoag of Columbus vs 19-year-old Bob Bourne of Oberlin; Vince Cirigliano, Cleveland oil salesman, vs. Paul Minnich of Elyria, four-time champion of the host club; and Stahl vs. Dr. Mel Woelfing of Toledo, the National Caddy Champion of 1950.

Survivors of today's two rounds meet in Saturday's 36-hole semi-finals, and Sunday's championship battle also is over the long route.

Central Wins On Forfeit

The rules book decided a tight battle in the Colt League Thursday in which Central Service won a forfeit game from the Lawyers in one of the weirdest endings in the young league's history.

Unable to field a full team for the eighth inning, because one player was ejected in a rhubarb over a low pitch, the Lawyers were required to forfeit the game although the score was tied at 3-3.

According to league officials, the forfeit provided Central Service with a 9-0 triumph and moved the winners all the way from fifth to second place in the standings.

Burkhart, left fielder for the Lawyers, was ejected by the umpire in the last half of the seventh in a rhubarb over a pitch, and during a rally in which the Lawyers tallied one run to tie at 3-3.

Central had been limited to three hits by Walker, with Dalessio getting a triple and Chetwynd a double. Scott had a double for the Lawyers, while Blythe had two hits.

Walker fanned seven, and Locke three.

Local Unions Get Bids For Data On Minority Groups

Local unions of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters have been asked to co-operate with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity by completing questionnaires concerning minority groups in each local.

In a letter to E. L. Wheatley, international president, W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor and vice chairman of the committee, said the purpose of the questionnaire is to determine the composition of minority groups in local unions throughout the country.

The committee also wants to obtain information concerning the activity of minority groups seeking union membership and the reaction of local unions to the applications.

Wheatley said the questionnaires have been forwarded to affiliated locals and delegates at the annual convention opening Monday will be appraised of the program.

The international president said neither the IBOP constitution nor any known contracts contain a discrimination clause. There never has been any racial, nationality or creed ban in the constitution, Wheatley declared.

Father, Son Convicted Of Stock Fraud

NEW YORK (AP)--The father-son brokerage team of Gerardo A. Re and Gerard Re was convicted Thursday of a stock fraud conspiracy in which, the government said, the public was bilked of $5 million.

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated four hours in arriving at their verdict of guilty on all counts against the Res, Charles A. Grande, Ely Batkin, and Jacob Yaffee.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Dudley B. Bonsal set Sept. 10 for sentencing.

Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

Re, 67, and his son, 40, were charged with having rigged the market on the American Stock Exchange to facilitate the high-pressure sale of $10-million worth of common stock of the Swan-Finch Oil Corp. from 1954 to 1957.

Grande, 68, a retired horse trainer, was charged as serving as an agent, while Batkin, 46, former head of a now defunct brokerage firm, and Yaffee, 56, former stock broker, were accused of operating illicitly as brokers.

Each of the defendants could receive a maximum of five years' imprisonment and be fined $10,000.

The Res were expelled from the American Stock Exchange in 1961 following a long investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The trial grew out of complaints to the SEC about five years ago.

The government charged that Lowell M. Birrell, now a fugitive in Brazil, acquired control of Swan-Finch and inflated the stock from 35,000 shares to 2,000,000 through a number of mergers.

Gerardo Re agreed to participate in unloading the stock on the public, the government charged.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said Birrell gained control of Swan-Finch, a distributor of industrial oils and grease, in 1954, when its 35,000 shares of stock were worth less than $1 million.

Within three years, its 2,000,000 shares had a market value of $10 million.

Bail of $40,000 each was set for the Res, $15,000 each for Grande and Batkin, and $10,000 for Yaffee.

Day, a Democrat, pleaded innocent to the charges and was freed on $2,000 bond. Common Pleas Judge William K. Thomas set the trial for Aug. 19.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Should Be Prepared For School

If your child will enter school for the first time in September, there are some matters you will want to consider now. Have him (or her) checked by your doctor and dentist. Do everything possible to have him strong and healthy. Look into his routines of health habits — sleeping, eating, and elimination and general attitude toward personal cleanliness and family routines. As a rule, he should be trained not to consume foods, especially sweets and sweet drinks, between meals.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Continue reading to the child daily and set limits on the amount of time he may view TV. Rule out all programs of violence.

—:—

TRY HARD TO provide him with a cheerful, serene family atmosphere of love and understanding. Ask yourself how well he is learning to wait on himself, to do for himself what he is able to do and to care for his own things.

Basic self - reliance and responsibility will prove very useful to him on entering school.

Ask yourself, too, how self - reliant he is emotionally. Can he feel comfortable and happy out of your presence? Can he find amusement alone and with other children near his own age?

If he cries when you leave him or must have you most of the time to amuse him, he will have a hard time to be away from you at school.

Consider how well he has learned the alphabet of obedience and respect for the rights of other persons and how well he gets along with other children.

Attract other children of his age to your home. Study him then and seek ways to make him a good playmate. Fine if he could play with, or grow acquainted with, a few children who will be in the same class at school with him.

AIM TO HELP him look forward happily and hopefully to school. Some older children may tease him and arouse fears about school in him. If you see or hear such, try privately to persuade the offenders to desist, even to do the opposite. An older brother might do most to reassure this child that going to school will be a delightful experience.

If he is not promptly obedient, never warn him that he will have to mind when he goes to school. Though you can't hope to make your child over during the remaining time before school opens, you can, by taking thought, achieve much in the direction we have indicated.

For 75 cents sent to the National Education Association, 1201 16th Street, N. W., Washington 6, D. C., you can secure a copy of "Happy Journey", which is very helpful to the parent readying a young child for school.

My bulletins, "Self - Reliance," "Why Read to Baby and Young Child" and "Fears in Children," may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Battery-Powered Device

Mechanical Heart Saves Man Who 'Died' 5 Times

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Norman Howard "died" five times before he got a mechanical lease on life.

That lease is a battery-powered device in the abdomen of the 53-year-old Maryville businessman. The little lifesaver is connected by wires to two tiny electrodes sewed to the muscles of Howard's heart. It steps up his heartbeat and compensates for a fault in the heart impulses.

The beginning of what might have been the end for Howard was last April 9.

He came home from a day of fishing, took a hot bath and, as he prepared for bed, noticed his heart pounding. Short of breath, he checked his pulse.

"The way I counted it, my pulse beat was 40 to the minute," he said. "Sounded slow to me." The normal beat is 68 to 70.

Next day Howard saw a doctor. There was no evidence of heart attack or heart damage.

"But there's something wrong," the doctor said. "We're going to have to put you in the hospital."

"I started to protest," Howard recalled. "'Now? I never felt better in my—' right there I collapsed."

His heart was stilled. After long moments, the doctor stirred it to activity again by a powerful chemical, isoproterenol hydrochloride.

Howard, the doctor says, "died" briefly three more times during the next 20 days in a hospital.

When it seemed the attacks were easing, Howard returned home. Two days later he had his fifth brush with oblivion.

"I thought he was gone," said his wife, a former X-ray technician. "We rushed him to University Hospital in Knoxville, the doctor giving him isuprel (isoproterenol hydrochloride) through the veins all the way—and that's quite a trick in an ambulance."

At this point, doctors decided to use the Pacemaker, the electrical heartbeat regulator.

Howard's heart was attached to its mechanical companion May 16. He plans to return to work next week.

Ohio Gas Company's Request For Rate Hike Hits New Snag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A $35 million rate increase by the East Ohio Gas Co., which has been sought since 1961, has hit another snag.

After three days of testimony before the Public Utilities Commission here, the protesting cities were given until Aug. 6 to prepare for cross examination of experts and 23 documents submitted by the company.

The cities asked for at least a 60-day recess. However, commission chairman Carl Johnson said he would be receptive to another motion for a recess if the cities cannot prepare fast enough to keep up with cross examination.

East Ohio, which has customers in 15 northeastern counties, has asked to increase residential rates by $33.9 million and those to industrial customers by $1.1 million.

The hearing has strayed from the usual court actions. The company was allowed to present all of its material without cross examination and exhibits were not entered into the record until after all had been presented. Then each was acted upon.

The City of Cleveland objected to all of the exhibits being entered as did the city of Canton, represented by city solicitor Harold E. DeHoff. Akron and Massillon also voiced objections.

DeHoff explained to the Associated Press:

"Under a commission ruling (March 15, 1962) it set a date certain as Dec. 31, 1960. All of our research is geared on that date and now the company has come in with additional dates. This would require us to do thousands of dollars of more research."

Rail System Mislays Research Equipment

LONDON (AP)—Britain's state-owned railway system has mislaid research equipment safely retrieved from space, a scientist complained Thursday.

Dr. R. C. Jennison of the Lodrell Bank Observatory said the equipment was in a rocket fired from the Woomera Range in Australia June 5.

The equipment was recovered, flown to London and handed to the state railway system for the 160-mile journey to Jodrell Bank. The consignment last was heard of June 12, Jennison said.

Bids for the annual street improvement program and cleaning and painting of the water standpipe are being sought by Wellsville Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare.

Father, Son Convicted Of Stock Fraud

NEW YORK (AP)—The father-son brokerage team of Gerardo A. Re and Gerard Re was convicted Thursday of a stock fraud conspiracy in which, the government said, the public was bilked of $5 million.

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated four hours in arriving at their verdict of guilty on all counts against the Res, Charles A. Grande, Ely Batkin, and Jacob Yaffee.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Dudley B. Bonsal set Sept. 10 for sentencing.

Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

Re, 67, and his son, 40, were charged with having rigged the market on the American Stock Exchange to facilitate the high-pressure sale of $10-million worth of common stock of the Swan-Finch Oil Corp. from 1954 to 1957.

Grande, 68, a retired horse trainer, was charged as serving as an agent, while Batkin, 46, former head of a now defunct brokerage firm, and Yaffee, 56, former stock broker, were accused of operating illicitly as brokers.

Each of the defendants could receive a maximum of five years' imprisonment and be fined $10,000.

The Res were expelled from the American Stock Exchange in 1961 following a long investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The trial grew out of complaints to the SEC about five years ago.

The government charged that Lowell M. Birrell, now a fugitive in Brazil, acquired control of Swan-Finch and inflated the stock from 35,000 shares to 2,000,000 through a number of mergers.

Gerardo Re agreed to participate in unloading the stock on the public, the government charged.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said Birrell gained control of Swan-Finch, a distributor of industrial oils and grease, in 1954, when its 35,000 shares of stock were worth less than $1 million.

Within three years, its 2,000,000 shares had a market value of $10 million.

Bail of $40,000 each was set for the Res, $15,000 each for Grande and Batkin, and $10,000 for Yaffee.

Indicted Recorder Says He Won't Resign

CLEVELAND (AP)—An attorney for Frank S. Day, Cuyahoga County recorder indicted on 27 counts involving alleged manipulation of his office payroll, says Day has no intention of resigning.

The lawyer, Norman S. Minor, said after Day was indicted by the county grand jury Thursday: "He was elected recorder, has admitted no offense for which he thinks he should be removed, and he feels certain he will be vindicated at his trial."

Day, a Democrat, pleaded innocent to the charges and was freed on $2,000 bond. Common Pleas Judge William K. Thomas set the trial for Aug. 19.

20 Youths In Riot Facing Court Today

RUSSELLS POINT, Ohio (AP)—About 20 of the youths who launched a riot at this Indian Lake Resort July 4 were scheduled to answer charges in Mayor Gene Gooding's court today.

One of those in court Thursday, Jerry Mouth of Lima, pleaded innocent. Mayor Gooding set his trial for Aug. 9.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Child Should Be Prepared For School

If your child will enter school for the first time in September, there are some matters you will want to consider now. Have him (or her) checked by your doctor and dentist. Do everything possible to have him strong and healthy. Look into his routines of health habits — sleeping, eating, and elimination and general attitude toward personal cleanliness and family routines. As a rule, he should be trained not to consume foods, especially sweets and sweet drinks, between meals.

Dr. Garry Meyers

Continue reading to the child daily and set limits on the amount of time he may view TV. Rule out all programs of violence.

—:—

TRY HARD TO provide him with a cheerful, serene family atmosphere of love and understanding. Ask yourself how well he is learning to wait on himself, to do for himself what he is able to do and to care for his own things.

Basic self - reliance and responsibility will prove very useful to him on entering school.

Ask yourself, too, how self - reliant he is emotionally. Can he feel comfortable and happy out of your presence? Can he find amusement alone and with other children near his own age?

If he cries when you leave him or must have you most of the time to amuse him, he will have a hard time to be away from you at school.

Consider how well he has learned the alphabet of obedience and respect for the rights of other persons and how well he gets along with other children.

Attract other children of his age to your home. Study him then and seek ways to make him a good playmate. Fine if he could play with, or grow acquainted with, a few children who will be in the same class at school with him.

AIM TO HELP him look forward happily and hopefully to school. Some older children may tease him and arouse fears about school in him. If you see or hear such, try privately to persuade the offenders to desist, even to do the opposite. An older brother might do most to reassure this child that going to school will be a delightful experience.

If he is not promptly obedient, never warn him that he will have to mind when he goes to school. Though you can't hope to make your child over during the remaining time before school opens, you can, by taking thought, achieve much in the direction we have indicated.

For 75 cents sent to the National Education Association, 1201 16th Street, N. W., Washington 6, D. C., you can secure a copy of "Happy Journey", which is very helpful to the parent readying a young child for school.

My bulletins, "Self - Reliance," "Why Read to Baby and Young Child" and "Fears in Children," may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Battery-Powered Device

Mechanical Heart Saves Man Who 'Died' 5 Times

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Norman Howard "died" five times before he got a mechanical lease on life.

That lease is a battery-powered device in the abdomen of the 53-year-old Maryville businessman. The little lifesaver is connected by wires to two tiny electrodes sewed to the muscles of Howard's heart. It steps up his heartbeat and compensates for a fault in the heart impulses.

The beginning of what might have been the end for Howard was last April 9.

He came home from a day of fishing, took a hot bath and, as he prepared for bed, noticed his heart pounding. Short of breath, he checked his pulse.

"The way I counted it, my pulse beat was 40 to the minute," he said. "Sounded slow to me." The normal beat is 68 to 70.

Next day Howard saw a doctor. There was no evidence of heart attack or heart damage.

"But there's something wrong," the doctor said. "We're going to have to put you in the hospital."

"I started to protest," Howard recalled. "'Now? I never felt better in my—' right there I collapsed."

His heart was stilled. After long moments, the doctor stirred it to activity again by a powerful chemical, isoproterenol hydrochloride.

Howard, the doctor says, "died" briefly three more times during the next 20 days in a hospital.

When it seemed the attacks were easing, Howard returned home. Two days later he had his fifth brush with oblivion.

"I thought he was gone," said his wife, a former X-ray technician. "We rushed him to University Hospital in Knoxville, the doctor giving him isuprel (isoproterenol hydrochloride) through the veins all the way—and that's quite a trick in an ambulance."

At this point, doctors decided to use the Pacemaker, the electrical heartbeat regulator.

Howard's heart was attached to its mechanical companion May 16. He plans to return to work next week.

Ohio Gas Company's Request For Rate Hike Hits New Snag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A $35 million rate increase by the East Ohio Gas Co., which has been sought since 1961, has hit another snag.

After three days of testimony before the Public Utilities Commission here, the protesting cities were given until Aug. 6 to prepare for cross examination of experts and 23 documents submitted by the company.

The cities asked for at least a 60-day recess. However, commission chairman Carl Johnson said he would be receptive to another motion for a recess if the cities cannot prepare fast enough to keep up with cross examination.

East Ohio, which has customers in 15 northeastern counties, has asked to increase residential rates by $33.9 million and those to industrial customers by $1.1 million.

The hearing has strayed from the usual court actions. The company was allowed to present all of its material without cross examination and exhibits were not entered into the record until after all had been presented. Then each was acted upon.

The City of Cleveland objected to all of the exhibits being entered as did the city of Canton, represented by city solicitor Harold E. DeHoff. Akron and Massillon also voiced objections.

DeHoff explained to the Associated Press:

"Under a commission ruling (March 15, 1962) it set a date certain as Dec. 31, 1960. All of our research is geared on that date and now the company has come in with additional dates. This would require us to do thousands of dollars of more research."

Man Gets Life Term For Slaying Girl, 14

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 29-year-old father of four pleaded guilty Thursday to the rape-slaying of 14-year-old Pamela Moss and became the first person in New York history to plead guilty to first degree murder.

James R. Moore was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment. The sentence was mandatory under a new state law permitting guilty pleas to first degree murder.

Moore strangled and raped Pamela last September near her home in suburban Penfield.

Rail System Mislays Research Equipment

LONDON (AP)—Britain's state-owned railway system has mislaid research equipment safely retrieved from space, a scientist complained Thursday.

Dr. R. C. Jennison of the Lodrell Bank Observatory said the equipment was in a rocket fired from the Woomera Range in Australia June 5.

The equipment was recovered, flown to London and handed to the state railway system for the 160-mile journey to Jodrell Bank. The consignment last was heard of June 12, Jennison said.

Wellsville Seeks Bids For Annual Street Program

Bids for the annual street improvement program and cleaning and painting of the water standpipe are being sought by Wellsville Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare.

The bids on both projects will be opened at 11 a.m. Friday, July 26.

The street program calls for the application of double sealcoat to sections of 23 streets, single sealcoat on one, scarifying and slagging three dirt streets and the blacktopping of Commerce St. from 16th to 17th St.

The blacktop job was not included in the original proposal. Mayor William Daugherty suggested that City Council consider doing one blacktop job each year.

OFF THE RECORD

"I'm still confused, but on a much higher level!"

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 12, the 193rd day of 1963. There are 172 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1864, Union troops reached Washington, D.C., in time to prevent the city's capture by Confederate cavalry and infantry forces. On the day before, the Confederates had been in the city's outskirts on the route leading directly to the White House, the Capitol, and the Treasury.

On this date

In 1806, Napoleon established the Confederation of the Rhine.

In 1892, Cyrus Field, the driving force behind the laying of the Atlantic cable, died at the age of 73.

In 1920, the Panama Canal was formally opened.

In 1941, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a mutual assistance treaty during World War II.

In 1960, the United States charged Russia of a wanton attack in shooting down an American RB47 military plane.

Ten years ago .... Russia rejected as a so-called "propaganda maneuver" an offer by President Eisenhower to send $15 million worth of American food to hungry East Germans.

Five years ago .... The makers of the Packard motor car announced it was being discontinued after 59 years.

One year ago .... The New York brokerage firm of Bache and Company reported the theft of more than $1,370,000 worth of negotiable securities.

Man, 100, Finally Decides To Retire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After retiring three times, Robert Howell figures it's about time to settle back and enjoy his friends, leisure and travel. He celebrated his 100th birthday in June.

Howell worked most of his life at the Standard Oil refinery here. After retirement, he took a job in a restaurant at the age of 80. In due time, he accepted a job as a delivery man — at 92.

"I've had enough," he explained. "Too much work isn't good for anyone."

Junior Editors Quiz on CRAYONS

QUESTION: How are crayons made?

ANSWER: "Crayon" is often used to mean any kind of stick you can draw with — these might be made of a waxy material, of a chalky substance, or of charcoal. Artists often use those of color pigments combined with a chalky paste, which are called "pastels" (A). These give light airy colors and rub off very easily. Schools use the kind most generally called crayons. (B). These bright, shiny colors don't rub off. They are usually made of mixtures of wax, soap and resin with the various colored pigments.

It is possible to make many beautiful pictures with school crayons. One can draw and get a color at the same time. One color can be put over another, giving a more interesting effect than making one flat tone. Suppose you want to do a patch of green grass. Over the green you can touch a bit of blue, or brown or pink. This will make the colors "vibrate" and look more exciting. In our picture, Charlie is showing something even more interesting. He has taken black tempera paint thinned down a bit and, with a large brush, is laying it across his crayon butterflies. The greasy crayon "resists" the water black, so the colors remain while the paper turns black. It gives a wonderful effect!

FOR YOU TO DO: When you try Charlie's method, don't worry if your butterflies are not so real looking as his. The main thing is to get a whole lot of thick, brilliant crayon color on. Don't scrub the black in. Just lay it across, one stroke under the other.

★ ★ ★

Mary Lee Levandoski of Norristown, Pa., wins today's grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

Man, 100, Finally Decides To Retire

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — After retiring three times, Robert Howell figures it's about time to settle back and enjoy his friends, leisure and travel. He celebrated his 100th birthday in June.

Howell worked most of his life at the Standard Oil refinery here. After retirement, he took a job in a restaurant at the age of 80. In due time, he accepted a job as a delivery man — at 92.

"I've had enough," he explained. "Too much work isn't good for anyone."

Junior Editors Quiz on CRAYONS

QUESTION: How are crayons made?

ANSWER: "Crayon" is often used to mean any kind of stick you can draw with — these might be made of a waxy material, of a chalky substance, or of charcoal. Artists often use those of color pigments combined with a chalky paste, which are called "pastels" (A). These give light airy colors and rub off very easily. Schools use the kind most generally called crayons. (B). These bright, shiny colors don't rub off. They are usually made of mixtures of wax, soap and resin with the various colored pigments.

It is possible to make many beautiful pictures with school crayons. One can draw and get a color at the same time. One color can be put over another, giving a more interesting effect than making one flat tone. Suppose you want to do a patch of green grass. Over the green you can touch a bit of blue, or brown or pink. This will make the colors "vibrate" and look more exciting. In our picture, Charlie is showing something even more interesting. He has taken black tempera paint thinned down a bit and, with a large brush, is laying it across his crayon butterflies. The greasy crayon "resists" the water black, so the colors remain while the paper turns black. It gives a wonderful effect!

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: When you try Charlie's method, don't worry if your butterflies are not so real looking as his. The main thing is to get a whole lot of thick, brilliant crayon color on. Don't scrub the black in. Just lay it across, one stroke under the other.

St. Clair Ave. Proposal Due Council Vote

Because of vacations and late working schedules, City Council has scheduled a special meeting at 11:45 tonight to consider a resolution on the proposed St. Clair Ave. improvement and other legislation.

Councilman Floyd Murray is working the 3-11 shift this week and Councilman Edward Massey is leaving on vacation and will be unable to attend Monday's regular meeting, Council Clerk Lawrence Zollinger said.

Six votes are required to pass legislation under suspension of rules. Councilman Frank Duffy voted against the initial St. Clair legislation at the July 1 meeting. If Duffy voted against the new resolution tonight, the legislation could not be passed under suspension of rules and two more readings would be required.

The legislation fixes the estimated valuation of unplatted lots on St. Clair Ave. along with the foot frontage and the depth of the lots based on the average depth of the lots in the neighborhood in which the tracts are located, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said.

Council also may consider legislation authorizing borrowing $15,000 for a new packer truck for the incinerator department and completion of the department's new garage on W. 2nd St.

Companion legislation also will authorize Safety - Service Director Robert Owen to advertise for bids.

The garage improvements would include a concrete floor, partitions, sanitary facilities and water and sewage lines.

An amended appropriations ordinance providing $250 for the Municipal Planning Commission for office expenses and transfer of funds also is expected to be introduced.

Fiery Sinking Of Boat Kills 40; 20 Hunted

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A score of small boats combed the Plate River estuary through thick fog today for 20 persons missing after the fiery sinking of a river steamer carrying more than 400 persons. Forty bodies had been recovered.

Rescue vessels plucked 355 panic-stricken survivors from overcrowded lifeboats and the wintry waters of the wide river mouth 50 miles in from the Atlantic.

The 2,300-ton Ciudad de Asuncion, commanded by a substitute captain and normally used only in inland service, sank in darkness and fog Thursday. It was on the 150-mile overnight run from Montevideo, Uruguay, to Bueons Aires.

An unconfirmed report said three Americans were aboard. Neither their identity nor their fate was known.

Some survivors said the 33-year-old steamer apparently went off course in a 36-foot-deep channel and struck a sunken ship.

An electrical short circuit apparently touched off an explosion and the lights went out.

"Panic started when we saw thick black smoke coming up from inside, and then red flames," Enrique Pfeseinkopf, 26, Uruguayan businessman, said. "People screamed in fear. They started climing up the rails and jumping into the water. I jumped too."

Capt Avito Fernandez, whose own ship is in drydock, ordered lifeboats lowered when the lights went out. One went down bow first and sank.

was riding with Frye, is in "fairly good" condition at the hospital with lacerations of the head and scalp and bruises of the chest.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Frye was headed north in a 1962 sedan and drove into the intersection a half mile east of Unity and rammed the side of the eastbound rig operated by Richard K. Huston, 27, of 640 Bacon Ave., East Palestine. Huston escaped injury.

Witnesses said the collision smashed in the driver's side of the auto, and Frye was hurled out of the car.

The youth apparently had been picked up by Frye on N. Market St. Ext. He is the son of Mrs. Trudy Birk.

The site of the crash — which was timed at 4:40 p.m.—is 1½ miles north of East Palestine.

The death marked the 14th traffic fatality so far this year in Columbiana County, compared to 17 at this time in 1962.

Frye recently had obtained a home at Petersburg, where he planned to reside after retirement.

He was born March 21, 1903, at Arden, W. Va., a son of Israel and Mary Ellen Frye. He had been an employe of the steel firm for many years.

Among survivors are a sister, Mrs. Ada J. Cunningham of Zelienople, Pa.

Arrangements have not been completed for services, which will be held at the Ziegler Funeral Home at Zelienople. Burial will be in Lake Park Cemetery at Youngstown.

Busta, 31, when they heard dogs barking at the side of the house.

Tavaliero's wife said her husband and Busta went to investigate and were struck by shotgun blasts from a car. Tavaliero was hit in the shoulder, Busta in the face. Busta was taken to a hospital for possible eye surgery.

Down the street, a boy, 12, was sitting on the porch. A car sped by the house and fired a shotgun blast at him. He was hit, but did not require hospital treatment.

Outside the Cambridge armory, where State Police have maintained a command post during the racial troubles, reporters and few troopers were standing outside about 1 a.m. They heard a volley of shots and saw a car careen around the corner its tires screeching.

"Call a hospital," someone in the car moaned as the car pulled up in front of the armory.

Three National Guardsmen in the car said they had been hit by shotgun blasts from a group of men. The men, part of a local group pressed into duty as truck drivers, had returned to Cambridge to sightsee.

The driver, Leon D. Buckle, 21, of Ridgeley, Md., had been hit in the shoulder. He was taken to Cambridge Maryland Hospital. The other two were wounded only slightly and did not require treatment.

As the night wore on, State Police Maj. George E. Davidson said: "There is shooting all over the city — almost on the scale of warfare. The situation requires the attention of the military. I have recommended to the governor that the militia be reinstated. I am confident that my recommendation will be followed."

Troops were sent into this community on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay last month after four consecutive nights of demonstrations in which three white men were shot, two whites and two Negroes were injured by thrown rocks, and four stores were set afire.

The guard imposed a modified martial law, a 10 p.m. curfew with stores closed one hour earlier than that, and prohibited any sale of alcoholic beverages. Demonstrations also were forbidden.

The Town Council passed an equal accommodation amendment to the town charter but Negro leaders were not satisfied with it. The amendment can be petitioned to referendum and they wanted, instead, a city ordinance which could not be petitioned.

Ecuador

Quito, there were a few attempts to organize street demonstrations in favor of Arosemena, but all were broken up. Some machine-gun volleys were fired into the air.

A military spokesman said Arosemena resigned after receiving guarantees for his personal safety and that of his family.

The junta said elections would be held as soon as possible and that it had received messages of support from all political parties and all units of the armed forces.

The military sent Arosemena to Panama aboard an Ecuadorian Air Force plane. He said on his arrival in Panama "I have not resigned," and went to a hotel without further comment. Ecuadorian army officers accompanying him said he would inform Panamanian authorities whether he planned to stay or push onward.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A score of small boats combed the Plate River estuary through thick fog today for 20 persons missing after the fiery sinking of a river steamer carrying more than 400 persons. Forty bodies had been recovered.

Rescue vessels plucked 355 panic-stricken survivors from overcrowded lifeboats and the wintry waters of the wide river mouth 50 miles in from the Atlantic.

The 2,300-ton Ciudad de Asuncion, commanded by a substitute captain and normally used only in inland service, sank in darkness and fog Thursday. It was on the 150-mile overnight run from Montevideo, Uruguay, to Bueons Aires.

An unconfirmed report said three Americans were aboard. Neither their identity nor their fate was known.

Some survivors said the 33-year-old steamer apparently went off course in a 36-foot-deep channel and struck a sunken ship

An electrical short circuit apparently touched off an explosion and the lights went out.

"Panic started when we saw thick black smoke coming up from inside, and then red flames," Enrique Pfeseinkopf, 26, Uruguayan businessman, said. "People screamed in fear. They started climing up the rails and jumping into the water. I jumped too."

Capt Avito Fernandez, whose own ship is in drydock, ordered lifeboats lowered when the lights went out. One went down bow first and sank.

Some survivors said several men pushed women from lifeboats to save their personal belongings.

Busta, 31, when they heard dogs barking at the side of the house.

Tavaliero's wife said her husband and Busta went to investigate and were struck by shotgun blasts from a car. Tavaliero was hit in the shoulder, Busta in the face. Busta was taken to a hospital for possible eye surgery.

Down the street, a boy, 12, was sitting on the porch. A car sped by the house and fired a shotgun blast at him. He was hit, but did not require hospital treatment.

Outside the Cambridge armory, where State Police have maintained a command post during the racial troubles, reporters and few troopers were standing outside about 1 a.m. They heard a volley of shots and saw a car careen around the corner its tires screeching.

"Call a hospital," someone in the car moaned as the car pulled up in front of the armory.

Three National Guardsmen in the car said they had been hit by shotgun blasts from a group of men. The men, part of a local group pressed into duty as truck drivers, had returned to Cambridge to sightsee.

The driver, Leon D. Buckle, 21, of Ridgeley, Md., had been hit in the shoulder. He was taken to Cambridge Maryland Hospital. The other two were wounded only slightly and did not require treatment.

As the night wore on, State Police Maj. George E. Davidson said: "There is shooting all over the city — almost on the scale of warfare. The situation requires the attention of the military. I have recommended to the governor that the militia be reinstated. I am confident that my recommendation will be followed."

Troops were sent into this community on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay last month after four consecutive nights of demonstrations in which three white men were shot, two whites and two Negroes were injured by thrown rocks, and four stores were set afire.

The guard imposed a modified martial law, a 10 p.m. curfew with stores closed one hour earlier than that, and prohibited any sale of alcoholic beverages. Demonstrations also were forbidden.

The Town Council passed an equal accommodation amendment to the town charter but Negro leaders were not satisfied with it. The amendment can be petitioned to referendum and they wanted, instead, a city ordinance which could not be petitioned.

Ecuador

Quito, there were a few attempts to organize street demonstrations in favor of Arosemena, but all were broken up. Some machine-gun volleys were fired into the air.

A military spokesman said Arosemena resigned after receiving guarantees for his personal safety and that of his family.

The junta said elections would be held as soon as possible and that it had received messages of support from all political parties and all units of the armed forces.

The military sent Arosemena to Panama aboard an Ecuadorian Air Force plane. He said on his arrival in Panama "I have not resigned," and went to a hotel without further comment. Ecuadorian army officers accompanying him said he would inform Panamanian authorities whether he planned to stay or push onward.
